I'M NO BRIBER SWEARS LORIMER TO COLLEAGUES

For Four Hours the Accused Illinois Senator Speaks In His Own Behalf.

SPEECH OF THE SENATOR FULL OF HUMAN INTEREST

Lorimer Related Story of His Life and Told Why Democrats Preferred Him to a Republican---Accused Senator Said He Wanted No Sympathy---Only Asks for Justice.

PARTISANS OF LORIMER PREPARE TO CELEBRATE.

Springfield, Ill., February 22—Lorimer partisans in the Illinois legislature are said to be planning a spectacular demonstration in the house here tomorrow if the vote to be taken at Washington is favorable to Senator Lorimer.

"I feel sorry for the big glass chandeliers in the hall of representatives," said a Lorimer partisan tonight. "If the vote is favorable tomorrow and if the news comes," he continued, "while the house is in session you can look for the wildest scenes that have been witnessed in the old hall in a long time. We will make the scenes that usually accompany the last night of the session look tame."

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, February 22.—(Special.) This was William Lorimer's day in the United States senate. The man who has remained silent throughout the stirring debate over his right to retain a seat said to have been procured by corrupt practices, raised his voice as a senator from Illinois, and in his own defense.

There have been but one or two incidents like it in the last half century of the history of the American congress—one was the impeachment trial of President Andrew Johnson, and another the debate over the charges of corruption by Senator Mitchell, of Oregon. Burton of Kansas was indicted and tried and convicted in the civil courts, and a resolution adopted declaring his seat vacant, so his statement was not made on the floor.

Lorimer Did Not Weep.

Senator Lorimer did not weep as did Senator Mitchell on a similar occasion, but this man, who has passed about the senate chamber since his admittance, calm, subdued, and impassive, launched into a vigorous, vehement and intensely earnest discourse that held the uninterrupted interest of his audience, and at times thrilled them with its power. It was in many respects a great speech, and, while it may not have changed a vote, it certainly raised the new senator in the estimation of his colleagues, and disclosed in him powers and sensibilities many of them little suspected.

"If I am guilty of the charges of bribery and corrupt practices," said Mr. Lorimer, "I should be driven from yonder door, and the brand of infamy placed on my back."

But he asserted his innocence of the charges; repeated and asseverated his innocence with dignity, force and vigor in the strongest, simplest Anglo-Saxon words in the English dictionary, outside of the lexicon of profanity. He said he had never in the election by the Illinois legislature or any other election in which he had ever participated, for himself or others, used or caused to be used, or had knowledge of the use or promise of any money, gift or other thing of value to corruptly influence a voter. He attributed his rise to place and power to the friends he had made by the little every-day acts of courtesy and friendship.

Intensely Dramatic Situation.

It was an intensely dramatic situation, and the audience that filled the senate chamber represented every walk of life, crowding the public gallery, the diplomatic, executive and press galleries to their utmost capacity. More than half the members of the house crowded the space around the walls in the rear of the senate chamber.

The speech of this man, who had risen from the position of a conductor on a Chicago horse car to a seat in the chamber that American patriotism loves to call the highest lawmaking body in the world, spoke with an earnestness and absence of hysteria that marked him as a strong man, and carried conviction to the hearts of many.

In telling why democrats had always been his friends, and why thirty-four democratic members in the Illinois legislature had voted for him, he narrated incidents in his early life and struggles that would have powerfully moved any trial jury on earth, and were not entirely wasted on the callous and incisively inquisitorial senate. It was no ordinary appeal for sympathy, and never lacked in dignity, but was an address befitting the importance of an occasion in which the life and character of a United States

BANDITS CAUGHT NARRATE STORY OF TRAIN HOLD-UP

Two Youths, Gold-Laden, Confess to Robbery of Southern's Fast Mail.

THIRD MAN ARRESTED IMPLICATED BY YOUTHS

When Arrested, 20 Miles From Dahlonega by Citizens' Posse, Young Yeggmen Break Down and Tell Story of Robbery. Three Men Arrested Carried $2,000 on Their Persons.

Dahlonega, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Two men arrested tonight twenty miles from Dahlonega confessed to being members of the gang of bandits which held up and robbed the Southern Railway's fast mail, No. 36, last Saturday morning near White Sulphur Springs, Ga. The men had more than $1,000 in various kinds of money on their persons.

Another man, believed to be a member of the gang and implicated by the two men arrested tonight, was arrested earlier in the day by Sheriff Sargent, of Lumpkin county, fourteen miles northwest of this place. When cornered by the officers in a thicket he scattered gold coins right and left. The officers picked up $600, the greater portion of which was English gold. This man's name, according to the two men arrested tonight, is John Luck.

The arrest of the couple who tonight confessed was effected by a posse composed of the following Lumpkin citizens: Ex-Sheriff Jim Davis, Walter Waters, Joe Davis and Robert Long.

District Aroused by Strangers.

The Nimberwill district was aroused late this afternoon by the appearance of two suspicious-looking youngsters stalking through the fields and woods. The news was spread that strangers were skulking in the neighborhood, and a posse was quickly formed. Ex-Sheriff Davis headed the posse, and once the trail was struck, no time was lost until the capture was effected.

Lying in wait by a pathway, the men were completely taken by surprise, and their capture was effected without the slightest resistance. When covered by dangerous-looking guns they quietly sat down and acknowledged themselves beaten.

"They've Got Us Pard."

"Looks as if they've got us, pard," said the elder of the two.

"Shut up, fool," shouted the other.

But the other man talked, and in a few words told the story of the robbery of the fast mail. They refused to divulge their names, but very readily gave the name of the other man caught by Sheriff Sargent when told that a member of the gang was arrested earlier in the day. The man caught by the sheriff was described to them, and they had no hesitancy in declaring that he was the ring leader of the bandit gang. They stated that he carried more money on his person than any of the gang, and that if the officers didn't find it that he had thrown it away.

The men were wearied, and showed the effects of the experience of the last few days. They had slept out of doors until Tuesday night, when they were driven by the intense cold to hunt shelter in a deserted farm house.

Every Avenue of Escape Closed.

Every avenue of escape seemed closed to them, they declared. Every time they moved they believed they were shadowed. They feared to leave the Georgi ahills, and roamed many miles, in some instances back-tracking and covering the same ground twice and three times.

"It was a sorry day for us, that Saturday," said the talkative youngster. "I guess you've got us now, and we had just as well out with it." And he did.

He began turning gold and silver coins from his pockets, from his hat and shoes, and finally pulled off his socks, from which he took more than $100 in currency. The other youth reluctantly delivered his gold to the posse.

Probably not more than twenty to twenty-five years of age, the men arrested haven't the appearance of professionals. They are uneducated, and appear from their talk to have seen little of the world. They declared that Luck was a resident of Lumpkin county, but refused to state the exact place of residence.

Ignorant Mountain Boys.

The posse believes they are ignorant mountain boys who were induced by older heads to take part in the robbery, little realizing the seriousness of the act or what the consequences might be.

According to the description given the officers by Conductor Mooney of the man who made him waltz to the tune of a "forty-four," the elder of the couple fits exactly.

The youths were handcuffed and taken to a farm house where they will be guarded until daylight, when they will be removed to Lumpkin jail at Dahlonega to identify, if possible, the man caught by Sheriff Sargent.

WILL ERECT MEMORIAL TO GEO. WASHINGTON

Alexandria, Va., February 22.—Masons of high degree from all parts of the United States today paid tribute to George Washington, their fellow Mason, by placing in silent reverence on his tomb at Mount Vernon a beautiful wreath of flowers and afterward completing details of an organization to erect in this city a suitable Masonic memorial to Washington in the form of a temple where a hall will be set apart forever under the control of the several grand jurisdictions.

President Taft paid a tribute to George Washington by attending the meeting and later delivering an address at the banquet given by the local lodge of Masons, of which the first president was the most distinguished member.

TOSSED FROM CAR DRAGGED UNDER IT COATES WILL DIE

Trolley Rams Auto Containing Theater Party With Fatal Result.

CHAFFEUR WAS STUNNED; TWO OTHERS WERE UNHURT

George W. Coates, Broker and Clubman, Guest in Harvey Hill's Machine, When Accident Occurred---Taken From Under Machine With Fractured Skull.

George W. Coates, a well-known shoe broker with offices in the Gould building, is fatally injured as a result of a collision last night at 8:20 o'clock between the automobile in which he was riding and a street car in front of the Orpheum theater on Marietta street. He has suffered a fracture of the base of the skull. His wife and daughter, who have been spending the winter in Florida, have been notified of the accident, and are hurrying to his bedside. Mr. Coates is about 40 years of age, and lives at the Piedmont.

In the machine at the time of the accident were Harvey Hill, the attorney, who owned the car; J. E. Butler, a well-known traveling man, and Joe Hudson, the chauffeur. Mr. Hill escaped injury, Mr. Butler was slightly bruised, and the negro was knocked unconscious, sustaining painful bruises.

Auto Struck Broadside.

The accident was the result of the street car striking the automobile broadside, as the latter was turning to come in front of the theater to let its party dismount. The machine was going down Marietta street and curving to the left, while the street car was going in the opposite direction.

The automobile was struck on the right side, just about the middle of the car, and with such force as to shove it along the street for a distance estimated at from 30 to 70 feet before it could be stopped.

Mr. Coates, who occupied the front seat with the chauffeur, was tossed out upon the car tracks and was dragged several yards under the machine before the motorman of the trolley car could get the latter to a standstill. The negro was pinned under the steering wheel and knocked unconscious. Mr. Hill and Mr. Butler remained in the rear seat.

Did Not Know He Was Hurt.

When the trolley car had finally come to a standstill before wreck in its path, none of twenty or more eyewitnesses to the accident, knew that anyone but the chauffeur had been hurt. For probably thirty seconds no one realized that a man was under the car, and that that man was Mr. Coates.

Suddenly someone cried, "There's a dead man under the car. Let's lift the car and get him out."

Ready help met the cry, and when the machine was lifted a man caught hold of the unconscious form and carried it to the sidewalk. The face was bleeding horribly, crimson staining the ground for a long distance.

"That's Coates," cried a bystander. Mr. Hill pushed his way through the crowd crying: "Coates! Not Coates, oh, not Coates!"

Rushed in Automobile.

A call for the ambulance was sent in, but owing to delay in its arrival, an automobile was pressed into service, and Mr. Coates was rushed to the Atlanta hospital on Cone street. At a late hour he was still unconscious, and little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Policeman Tuggle, who came upon the scene shortly after the accident, sent the chauffeur to police headquarters, but no case was entered, and he was later transferred to the hospital.

Mr. Coates was made an Elk in the Atlanta lodge Friday night, and is a member of a number of other clubs.

The party was going to the Orpheum to see Lillian Russell. They were a little late, and most of the other patrons had entered the theater at the time of the accident.

The automobile is almost a complete wreck except for the engine. It was a handsome six-cylinder, five-passenger Stevens-Duryea, costing $4,000.

Statement of Car Crew.

The street car was No. 64, going east to Decatur street, and was in charge of J. W. Collerson, motorman, and G. Willingham, conductor. They state that the car was coming up the hill at a moderate rate of speed. The automobile was seen coming down the street, and the motorman thought that it would continue on the right side to the corner and get into line, according to the rule generally observed. Instead, it cut across quickly, and the accident was inevitable. The curtains of the automobile are said to have been up, preventing the occupants seeing outside.

An eye-witness of the affair states that the street car was running rapidly, and that no bell was rung as it reached the busy section of the street in front of the theater. The occupants of the car state that they had no idea the car was near them until they were struck by it.

Mr. Hill made the following statement to The Constituton:

Mr. Hill's Statement.

"The chauffeur, Joe Hudson, turned in the right place in front of the Orpheum. He is a most careful driver. I would far rather trust him than myself driving. He is a white man's negro. When the car struck us, it must have shoved us back 30 feet. It is a wonder that it didn't turn the car over. Mr. Coates was sitting on the front seat by the chauffeur, who was at the wheel. When the car hit us, he was tossed out, on the tracks, and when our car was hurled back by the street car, the auto was pushed over him. The street car must have been traveling 20 miles an hour."

THE NEW "SPY PROMENADE" OF ATLANTA'S NEW POSTOFFICE

HOW THE SPY SYSTEM WORKS IN THE ATLANTA POSTOFFICE.

This illustration is from a photograph taken just as the new building was completed, and as the postal force was about to move in. It shows clearly the inclosed steel gallery with its "blind" windows, through which the government spies may at any time witness the every action of any or all of the employees of the Atlanta office without being seen.

"No wonder the Atlanta postoffice is in a badly disorganized state, and, in my opinion, the outrageous extreme to which the government has carried the spy system, is responsible for it."

The speaker was a former employee of the postoffice department, and one who has a knowledge, in some degree, of the system of espionage now employed, and its rapid development.

This development has been witnessed in the Atlanta postoffice in a remarkable degree.

Under the old plan, there were little slits around in the wall here and there, or in the ceiling from the floor above, through which the inspectors used to keep an eye on the employees whenever there was occasion for it. But these little slits were small, unobtrusive and were scarcely noticed by the men at work.

In the new building, however, there stands an ever-present monument to espionage in the shape of an inclosed steel gallery which goes entirely around the room where mail is handled, and from which blind windows look down upon every department of the postoffice. This gallery is entered by "blind doors," that is, doors which cannot be seen from any portion of the postoffice where the employees are at work.

An inspector in this gallery can look upon every part and portion of the postoffice; can see every employee in every possible position without being seen, can even see them in the toilet room; in fact, there is no possible position which an employee can occupy anywhere in any of the departments where mail and stamps are handled, in which his every action cannot be witnessed unknown to him.

"Is it any wonder," continued the speaker, "that demoralization has followed this worse than Russian system of espionage?"

"The men feel as if they cannot even call their souls their own. The most absolutely honest and careful man, under such a system, must feel that his almost every action is liable to be misinterpreted; it almost gives one, too, the feeling of a convict, watched and guarded in his every movement.

"I thoroughly agree with the statements contained in the card of C. A. Stokes, published in your Wednesday's edition. I have no question but that it is this system and this condition of affairs in the Atlanta office which is responsible for its weakened condition today."

Certain statements in Mr. Stokes' card has direct reference to the situation in the Atlanta postoffice which is here referred to, and these statements of Mr. Stokes, who was formerly assistant superintendent of delivery

EXTRA SESSION IS A CERTAINTY

That Is the Opinion of Political Leaders.

Washington, February 22.—The chaotic conditions existing tonight in the United States senate add materially to the probability of an extra session of congress. In fact, indications began to multiply today that the senate leaders, having become convinced that an extra session is unavoidable, have decided to throw into that session a great deal more than the Canadian reciprocity agreement, which really will be the cause for the convening of the new congress.

This, it was charged by the advocates of reciprocity tonight, will be done for the purpose of beclouding the issue as much as possible and to delay the ratification of the agreement by much the same tactics that have characterized the present session.

Killing Reciprocity Delay.

Under the guise of fighting over other matters, it is charged, consideration of the reciprocity agreement will be continually postponed.

President Taft is said to be doing all he can to bring the republican leaders into line, but he is met with opposition in both wings of the party—the regulars and the insurgents.

The prediction was freely made about the capitol today that a number of the appropriation bills would fail of passage. If this should prove to be the case it would mean that the supply measures pending in the senate or in conference would be thrown out in their entirety and the making of the new measures would be left in the hands of the new democratic house.

There appears no longer any disposition to question President Taft's sincerity in his determination to call the sixty-second congress in an extraordinary session. The date for the opening of the new congress has been agreed upon tentatively as March 15.

Situation Without Precedent.

The situation in the senate is practically without precedent. There have been other years when appropriation bills were hurried through in the last two or three days of the session, but for the number of other important measures pending there are said to be few, if any, parallels for the present conditions. The result is that old political observers, usually accurate in the predictions, are entirely at sea and unwilling to hazard a guess as to the outcome. In the meantime the few remaining days of the session slip away.

If an extra session is called, the chances are that it will be anything but brief. Even if all the appropriation bills should be disposed of, the democrats of the house are determined to revise before they adjourn at least two or three schedules of the Payne-Aldrich act.

NO WHITE NURSES FOR THE NEGROES

Negro Nurses to Do the Inspection.

Action was taken yesterday by the finance committee of the board of education to provide negro nurses for the work of medical inspection among the negro schools of Atlanta. The opinion expressed in the editorial columns of Wednesday's Constitution, that none of the white nurses should be required to enter the homes of the colored pupils, was the unanimous opinion of the committee, and in consequence resolutions were passed requesting council to grant $200 for the purpose of hiring colored nurses to perform this duty

Dr. L. P. Stephens, head of the department of medical inspection, was present, and in response to questions

Damage, However, May Not Be Serious.

In spite of a temperature several degrees below freezing, which prevailed Tuesday night and continued through Wednesday and Wednesday night, it is generally believed by fruit growers that dry weather and high winds have thus far saved the fruit crop from total destruction or from very serious damage.

While it is admitted that the fruit crop has suffered considerably from the cold and in several localities may have been practically destroyed, it is not believed that the damage has been general or of sufficient magnitude to result in serious loss.

However, it will be several days be-

ADVERTISING TALKS.

WILLIAM C. FREEMAN.

THE AMERICAN TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH CO. started an advertising campaign a little over two years ago.

Following its custom of putting a "LABORATORY TEST" to everything it does, its first bow to the public in an advertising way was made in a town where there was great opposition to the telephone company.

The managers figured that IF ADVERTISING COULD CHANGE PUBLIC SENTIMENT in that community it would be a MIGHTY VALUABLE ASSET for them to employ as a regular thing in their business.

So they started their advertising campaign.

Their copy presented plain, unvarnished statements of fact, which the people read, and the com-

"WE'LL WIN," SAYS J. K. ORR, "IF ATLANTA SAYS SO."

We'll win—if Atlanta says so.

Who is Atlanta? How much a part of it are you?

First, we set down as a cardinal principle that every man has the right to administer his own estate, but whatever helps Atlanta, helps your estate.

If the Y. M. C. A. building of 1886 was a distinct factor in moving forward the Atlanta of that day, what will the erection of the four new buildings mean for the Atlanta of today? Toward this is the offer of $100,000 outside money.

This and the new buildings is the material side of the stake which we win or lose in this campaign.

Again, we say—we'll win, if Atlanta says so.

Who is Atlanta—and how much is your part?

Let's divide the privilege into two parts:

Let us give what folks may call the rich and well-to-do—a hundred thousand — they can easily handle it this way, each man taking his place as he best knows—

Two places of	$25,000
Or five of	10,000
Five more of	5,000
Fifteen more of	1,000
Twenty-nve more of	500

one to have a part—every

This leaves plenty for every-man or woman who loves Atlanta—who cares for a boy—who believes in the upbuilding physically and morally of our future citizens—should speak now to the extent of his or her ability.

Pick your place and send in your subscription today. Victory means sacrifice—but the joys of success will be as large as the dividends.

Here's what will win:

50 gifts of	$300,	or $100	a year.
150 gifts of	150,	or 50	a year.
200 gifts of	100,	or 33	a year.
200 gifts of	75,	or 25	a year.
100 gifts of	60,	or 20	a year.
100 gifts of	25,	or 8	a year.
300 gifts of	15,	or 5	a year.

No gift too small to be acceptable. Our committees cannot hope to see all who will want to give, but if you will telephone your name and address, you will be called upon. If you prefer, cut out the subscription blank in this paper and send to headquarters, Durand's Cafe.

If everyone will do his part, Atlanta wins.

J. K. ORR,
Chairman Business Men's Committee.

With a grand total of $417,268.30 on hand, out of a necessary $600,000, the workersin the Y. M. C. A. campaign will endeavor to make a cyclone finish to the work before midnight tonight.

Hitherto the 300 campaigners have confined their solicitations to the lists of names that have been given them, but from now on the entire city is open to them.

The spirit with which the canvassers are fighting is well represented by a story told by Dr. S. R. Belk at Thursday's dinner in Cafe Durand. Dr. Belk recalled the incident in the life of Napoleon, when that general, apparently on the verge of defeat, commanded his drummer boy to sound a retreat. When the boy replied that he did not know how to sound a retreat, Napoleon said, "Then sound a charge." As a result, Napoleon won one of his greatest victories.

"We do not know how to retreat," continued Dr. Belk, "so let us charge."

Bell Employees Give Liberally.

One of the features of the noon meeting was the report of the team under Paul Reese that the employees of the Southern Bell Telephone Company had subscribed in all $4,017 to the fund. In addition to personal subscriptions, the employees of the company had shown their interest by canvassing for the work personally.

Wednesday was the most successful day of the campaign, the total collections figuring $23,455 for the day.

The colored committee has now over 2,600 subscriptions to its credit, a record number in the time, and its total is over $48,000. They planned to raise $50,000, but have done so well that J. T. Moreland, in charge of the committee, says that they are after the world's record for colored people by raising $65,000.

A number of other inspiring talks were made after the reports had been received. These included brief addresses from James R. Gray, Hugh Richardson, Rev. Len G. Broughton and B. Mifiin Hood. Mr. Hood said, in part:

"I have been in most of the cities of the United States, and have had the opportunity to see for myself how Atlanta stood in the matter of her Young Men's Christian Association building, as compared with those of other cities, and I wish to state that it is a living disgrace to the metropolis of the southeastern states to have no better equipment for her young men than she now has.

Making Manhood.

"It has been my observation in many of the cities of the United States that the environment of the Young Men's Christian Association is the element which makes it of the most value to young men and boys. A young man must spend his nerves and his energy in some direction and it is going to be good or bad according to his environment. Of course heredity is going to play its part but unless the environment is what it should be, the character can be developed to its highest possibilities. There are thousands of young men in this city, living in second rate boarding houses, where the environment is not at all conducive to the development of character—quite the reverse. The Young Men's Christian Association gives to the young men the environment needed to create in them better morals, higher ideals in life, and makes of them better citizens, and Atlanta should not be content to stay in the third class, but should provide for her young men in proportion to her population and wealth. The Young Men's Christian Association movement, now on foot, should have the hearty support of every true citizen of Atlanta."

A prominent real estate man, among the younger set, who gave a large contribution to the fund, told yesterday afternoon of the value that the Young Men's Christian Association had been to him. When speaking of this to State Secretary J. V. Read he said:

"One of the important things influencing me to make my subscription to the Young Men's Christian Association fund was the memory that it was the Y. M. C. A. night school that taught me shorthand and so formed the basis for the modest success which I have enjoyed.

"There are hundreds of other young men who have profited similarly, and with the increased facilities which the carrying out of the Young Men's Christian Association's present splendid plan will insure, there will be thousands, instead of hundreds, who will be so benefited.

"No man can measure the good that may be accomplished by starting one young man right, and certainly if that be true, the placing of thousands of young men upon the right road will be of incalculable value to this entire community."

New Atlantan Talks.

J. H. Deering, a new Atlantan, said in part:

"I believe that the biggest benefit to be obtained by boys from the Young Men's Christian Association is the environment. It is principally the environment in which young boys are raised which determines whether they are to go up or down, and in the Young Men's Christian Association all classes are brought together, and the younger boys, whose characters yet remain to be developed, are thrown into contact with older and steadier boys and good association people who endeavor to help their weaker brothers.

"Atlanta wants to stand as high in the matter of its Young Men's Christian Association buildings and equipment as she stands in other matters. We want to make it rank with the best in the country, and this we will do, for the 'Atlanta Spirit,' though slow, will never allow so worthy a cause to fail."

RUSSELL K. SMITH SAYS Y. M. C. A. IS BEST FOR BOYS

"I am convinced that no father could do better for his boy than to give him the advantages of the Young Men's Christian Association, and its work, spiritual, moral and physical. Few churches are equipped to do this completely, and many that lack the incentive of enthusiasm and numbers to hold their young men together, which is so admirably found in the Young Men's Christian Association, with its skilled and paid physical directors.

I am a regular attendant at the gymnasium classes, myself, and can testify personally to the good spirit and the manliness that is shown by the officers and members. It is for this reason that I am giving my time and energy to this campaign, and I sincerely hope that others may be willing generously to give of their time and energy and of their means with which God has blessed them to double the capacity of this association to do the work for the young men of Atlanta which it has undertaken.

DR. A. A. LITTLE INDORSES WORK DONE BY Y. M. C. A.

"I most heartily indorse the Young Men's Christian Association. I feel that it has had much to do with my being in the ministry. When I went as a stranger to Richmond, va., it was the first religious institution that held out its Christian hand to me. It encouraged me in my Christian life and furnished me spiritual work, and this started me in the sphere of Christian service which I occupy today. I have always had a warm side for the Young Men's Christian Association, for if I have been of any use in the church I owe it largely to the work which this institution did.

"Atlanta, as a city of young men, needs in a very peculiar way better equipment for its Young Men's Christian Association work.

The following card has been written by Dr. Len G. Broughton:

Card From Dr. Broughton.

"Surely the broad-minded, liberal, Christian community of Atlanta will not allow the present opportunity to build and equip a modern, up-to-date Young Men's Christian Association headquarters to fail. The Young Men's Christian Association has passed through its experimental stage, and has now become in Christian and even heathen countries a fixed institution. I was recently in conversation with a Japanese official. We were crossing the sea together, and he said that he regarded the Young Men's Christian Association as perhaps the very best way of reaching the Japanese with our gospel. There was, from his standpoint, no argument that could be made against its work of practical religion. Just what he said of Japan is what we know of the work in our own community. Never mind how well equipped individual churches may be to do the work for young men, they cannot take the place of the Young Men's Christian Association. There is a need for this central non-denominational, unifying Christian line of work. I believe in the institutional church. I have given my best time and thought to the working out of the problems incident to the institutional church. I am doing some little work of this kind in connection with my own church, and am planning to do a great deal more. But I do not in any sense feel that I am doing the work of the Young Men's Christian Association. There is our own work to be done, and then there is the central and general line of work which the association only can do.

"In all my travels over this country and abroad, I find that the easiest money raised is money to carry on the Young Men's Christian Association work. Surely Atlanta, with all her boasted public spirit and philanthropy, is not going to fail at this time to come up to the measure of her responsibility. It is up to our business men. I have looked over the subscriptions, and find that the people of small incomes have done well. I say this with some knowledge of the ability of the community to give. The trouble is with the people who are able to give large sums. To be sure they are only waiting for the wind-up, when they will rally in such numbers and amounts as will turn the scale beyond the six-hundred-thousand-dollar mark.

GENERAL CABELL CALLED BY DEATH

Dallas, Texas, February 22.—General William Lewis Cabell, a soldier of high distinction during the civil war and honorary commander of the United Confederate Veterans, died at his home in this city at 10 o'clock tonight.

General Cabell was born in Danville, Va., January 1, 1827. He graduated from West Point in 1850.

At the beginning of the civil war he resigned from the United States army and joined the ranks of the Confederacy. He took part in the battle of Bull Run and was a participant in many other battles of note. He was wounded several times.

After the war General Cabell established his home at Fort Smith, Ark., but later removed to Dallas, Texas.

General Cabell was one of the prime movers in the formation of the United Confederate Veterans' association. He was several times elected lieutenant commander of the trans-Mississippi division, and at the last reunion, with General Clement A. Evans, was advanced to the highest office, that of honorary commander-in-chief.

The surviving children include Captain Lawrence Duval Cabell, U. S. A.; Lewis Rector Cabell, at present engaged as a civil engineer in Cuba; Ben E. Cabell and Mrs. E. B. Muse, of Dallas.

Be sure to get a Permit to smoke next Monday.

MORTUARY

Mrs. Annie Cousins.

The funeral of Mrs. Annie Cousins, who died Tuesday afternoon, will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. Father Kennedy officiating. The interment will be in West View.

Mrs. Emily P. Herod.

Mrs. Emily P. Herod, aged 83 years, died at the residence of her niece, Mrs. W. D. Wilson, yesterday morning at 2 o'clock. She is survived by her husband, Nathan Herod. The funeral will be held at the residence this morning at 10 o'clock. Interment will be at Flat Rock churchyard.

Mrs. Mary Hansford.

Mrs. Mary Hansford, aged 68 years, died at the residence, 383 West Third street, yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. She is survived by three children, Miss Lizzie Stradley, C. A. and E. W. Stradley. The funeral will be held at Greenberg & Bond Co.'s chapel today at noon. Interment will be at Casey's. Pallbearers will meet at the undertaking establishment at 11 o'clock.

Mrs. Ida Copeland, Jackson.

Jackson, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The death of Mrs. Ida Copeland occurred here last night, following a brief illness. Mrs. Copeland, who was about 50 years of age, was a Miss Ammons before her marriage. She is survived by two children. The funeral and interment will take place tomorrow.

J. L. Gray, Marietta.

Marietta, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—J. L. Gray died at his home near here this morning at 4 o'clock. He was in town yesterday and called on a physician. His family is away in Florida for the winter. Mr. Gray came here a few years ago from Ohio and bought an elegant home and had made many friends. He was 65 years old. Heart failure was the cause of his death.

Captain T. J. Scott, Athens.

Athens, Ga., February 22.—(Special.) Yesterday from the First Presbyterian church the funeral of Captain Thomas Jefferson Scott was conducted, the remains being laid to rest in Oconee cemetery. Captain Scott's funeral was attended by scores of the veterans of the war between the states, who met at the city hall and marched to the church in a body. The deceased was about 70 years old, prominent as owner of extensive plantations near Athens and was vice president of one of the large mercantile establishments of this place.

Mrs. N. J. Reed, Adairsville.

Adairsville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Mrs. N. J. Reed, one of the oldest citizens of this town, was found dead in bed this morning. She was 74 years old. She resided here for many years. The interment will occur here tomorrow.

Captain William T. Hardy.

Captain William T. Hardy, father of the late George P. Hardy, of this city, died on February 20 at his home in Williamsboro, N. C. He was a native of Virginia and was born in 1834. After graduating from V. M. I. he enlisted in the confederate army and served through the war. His second wife was Miss Alma Ludwig, of Hapeville, Ga. I'M NO BRIBER SWEARS LORIMER senator was at stake, and the dignity of the presence in which it was uttered.

Speech Would Have Moved Jury.

Had it been delivered before an ordinary jury, they would have brought in a verdict of "not guilty" without leaving the box. Mr. Lorimer did not deal exhaustively with the evidence in the case, or attempt to prove that no bribery was practiced, contenting himself with the positive assertion that he had no knowledge of such practices.

Whether the impression created by his speech will survive the attacks of Senator Beveridge and others who are yet to discuss the case, remains to be seen.

Whether or not Mr. Lorimer rises to the dignity of statesmanship, he is one of the most consummate politicians of his time. He has a genius for organization, and the faculty of making and holding personal political friends. In the course of his argument he stated that but for the republican organization he has built up, Chicago, for the past two decade, would have been as solidly democratic as New York.

Mr. Lorimer's speech was distinctly a "human interest story." More than once there was evidences that the speech was moving some of his hearers to tears.

Lorimer's Friends Hopeful.

What effect, if any, the speech will have upon the vote in the senate, it is, of course, impossible to say. The general impression about the capitol tonight is that Mr. Lorimer and his friends have safely pledged the votes with which to defeat the resolution which would declare his seat vacant, and that if the matter comes to a vote, the result will be a Lorimer victory.

It is not impossible that Lorimer's opponents may be able to prevent the matter coming to a vote at all before adjournment. It was said today that this will be the plan the anti-Lorimer people would try to carry out.

During the more than four hours that Mr. Lorimer occupied the floor, he reviewed practically all the charges which have been made against himself.

He took, up in turn, the opprobrious inferences drawn from his intimacy with Sepaker Shurtleff and Lee O'Neill Browne, his attendance upon the sessions of the Illinois legislature and his presence in Shurtleff's rooms, undertaking to show that in each instance his course had been natural and in the line of the performances of other public men under like circumstances.

Why Democrats Like Lorimer.

He explained his democratic support on the grounds of long-standing personal friendship for himself and of antipathy for Senator Hopkins, who was his principal antagonist in the senatorial contest.

In the former connection he related more than one story going to show attachment running over many years. This portion of the address appealed strongly to the feelings of senators, but when Senator Crawford intimated that the Illinois senator was making a bid for sympathy, he resented the imputation and turned the question to his own advantage by declaring that his only purpose was to set before the senate the truth. It was not a matter of sympathy, he said, but of right and wrong.

Mr. Lorimer undertook also to show how his advocacy of the lakes-to-the-Mississippi waterway had caused many members of the legislature to be partial to him. He said that he had made an effort to induce Governor Deneen to become a candidate to break up the senatorial deadlock and, in effect; he declared that if Deneen had been so inclined he could have elected A. J. Hopkins by throwing his vote to him. One or two allusions were made to the prosecution's case, and his enemies were referred to as "assassins of character." Mr. Lorimer asserted emphatically that not only had he not used money to influence his election, but that on his honor he knew of none having been so employed.

Great Crowd Heard Speech.

The galleries would hold only a small proportion of those who sought admittance. Hundreds stood in line throughout the speech, devouring every word that filtered through the gallery doors, and waiting for the seats of those who might weary and leave.

The number of the spectators and would-be spectators was not their only unusual characteristic. "Society," as known in Washington, was out in force. Mrs. Taft herself and a party occupied seats in the executive gallery. The diplomatic gallery was filled with representatives of various nations.

The crowd on the floor of the senate itself was almost as great as that which choked the galleries. Members of the house were massed in the rear of the chamber and around the sidewalls. At one time eighty-seven members of the lower body were listening to the speech. From the cabinet there came Attorney General Wickersham.

On a few occasions laughter rang through the chamber. Quite a chuckle spread among the less dignified in the chamber, when the speaker, with a sweep of his arm, knocked his glass of water on the floor, freely bedewing senators in the immediate neighborhood.

In Senator Lorimer's speech the names of many democrats were mentioned as among those who had voted for him because of personal friendship, among these being Senator Broderick, who, Mr. Lorimer said, had been for many years, even when "newspaper assassins of character" were then as since trying to destroy him.

"I never got one vote under false pretenses. No democrat was ever deceived into the belief that I would cooperate with the democrats in congress. So it was not through deception that any of them were led to vote for me," Mr. Lorimer said.

Lorimer and "Hinky-Dink."

Most dramatic was Senator Lorimer's recital of his first acquaintance with "Hinky-Dink" McKenna, who, when Lorimer was a bootblack and newsboy, compelled at the age of 10 to earn his living on the streets, came to his rescue and saved him from the loss of a bundle of Chicago Tribunes. It meant a loss of $1.50 to him, the speaker said, and "that dollar and a half meant more to me, Senator Root, than a million dollars would mean to some men now. I don't know whether the senator from New York (Mr. Root) or the senator from South Dakota (Mr. Crawford) know what it means to come up through circumstances like that—"

Senator Crawford rose to his feet. The interest was intense; every person in the galleries leaned forward; many rose.

"Mr. President, does the senator imagine himself the only senator who came up through hardship and poverty? Is he appealing for sympathy on that score?"

"I want no sympathy," shouted Senator Lorimer. A great sigh passed over the senate chamber. "This is not a question of sympathy; it is a question of right and wrong. I am only wondering if some senators understand how conditions like those can give rise to life-long friendships."

"Hinky-Dink" McKenna, it appeared, was the democratic leader in the district represented by State Senator John Griffin. Mr. Lorimer explained how his life-long friendship had led McKenna to promise and deliver the vote of Griffin for Lorimer.

Not Pleading for Sympathy.

"If this senate," continued Mr. Lorimer, with a sweep of his arm, "can believe me to be the low, vile creature that the senator from New York and the senator from South Dakota and other senators who have attacked me," he looked straight into the eyes of Senator Beveridge just across the aisle, "there is a plain duty staring you in the face, regardless of the testimony, regardless of this record. If I could be the foul wretch that these senators have sought to paint me, I should be driven from yonder door, branded with the stamp of infamy. Oh, no! I am not pleading for sympathy, I am trying to relate the truth of my election as it was and not as the senators from New York and South Dakota would have this senate believe."

Thirty-four democrats, Mr. Lorimer said, voted for him because they were his personal friends and not because they were "delivered" by Lee O'Neill Browne.

The senator took up the remarks based on his having been in the speaker's room at Springfield when the legislature was electing a senator. This room he described more as a smoking room than as a chamber of privacy. He expressed the belief that nobody would give any weight to his mere presence in such a room as evidence of bribery or corruption. It was brought into the case to "unsaddle the minds of senators, to lead them to believe something was wrong."

After stating that his first vote had been cast for James G. Blaine for president, Mr. Lorimer said he had been getting democratic votes ever since.

Mr. Lorimer declared that no democrat ever had voted for him except from "pure and unadulterated friendship." He asserted that he had received in his district 3,500 more votes than President Taft.

"Is that an evidence of corruption?" demanded the senator. "If so, I have a trail of democratic votes following me for the past quarter of a century. If I had bought them it would have cost me a million of dollars.

Easy to Charge Wrong Doing.

"It is an easy matter to charge wrongdoing and I regret to say that it is an easy matter for many to believe. In my opinion the charge as against a senator or member is more serious than that of depriving a man of life or liberty. Not even The Chicago Tribune has dared to charge me with bribery or corruption. Never have I used one dollar, nor had the remotest knowledge of the use of one dollar, to promote an election of mine, either to the lower house or to this. If senators even suspect that I did have knowledge of corruption in any degree I am very sorry, because on my word as a man there never has been a time that I have been guilty of that act, and I never did give or know of any person giving for me any promise, or any money, or anything else for anyone to vote for me, and my regret is that anybody should think so. I claim for myself no virtues more than those of other men; I have always tried to live so as to retain the confidence of the decent citizens of my community and my state. I say I may have not succeeded, but I have tried. If I have succeeded no man will come to my door and lay the charge of bribery or corrupt practice in my election, be it for myself or anybody else. I regret, therefore, that there are senators who feel that they have been able to find anything at all in my business life, in my political, social or family life that will justify him in having even a suspicion that I have been guilty of the charges they would lay at my door.

"I Am Not Guilty," Says Lorimer.

"I say again, on my word as a man and as a senator, that I am not guilty and that I have no knowledge in the remotest degree that bribery and corruption were practiced to gain a seat for me in this body, and I do not believe, whatever The Chicago Tribune may say, or may have been able to do by coercion, that votes were bought to send me to this senate."

With this peroration Mr. Lorimer closed his speech, which evidently had made a deep impression upon the crowds of spectators, whether or not upon the senators who will have to vote upon his case. Applause broke forth in the galleries when he finished. It met with the inevitable rebuke of Vice President Sherman in the chair.

Texas Taxes to Be Raised.

Austin, Texas, February 22.—That the tax rate in Texas must be raised from 4 cents to probably 10 or 11 cents on the hundred dollars in order to meet deficiencies and run the government for the next two years, was the statement in a message sent by Governor O. B. Colquitt to the house today. He said that the deficiency now in sight and required by law amounts to almost $1,000,000.

REWARD

The above reward will be paid jointly by the Southern Express Company and the Southern Railway Company for the arrest, with evidence to convict, the gang of men who held up Southern railway train No. 36, near White Sulphur, Hall county, Ga., on morning of February 18, 1911. Or a proportionate amount of this reward will be paid for the arrest, with evidence to convict, any one or more of the men wanted.

The governor of Georgia has offered a reward of ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS EACH for the arrest, with evidence to convict, the men perpetrating this robbery.

The Southern Express Company's safe was dynamited and robbed of a part of its contents.

Following is a description of robbers seen by train crew:

Man about 6 feet tall, weight about 150 or 160 pounds, seemingly about 40 or 50 years of age, round-shouldered and stoops decidedly, wore red mask covering face below eyes, talked in gruff voice and appeared to be boss of the job, addressed the other men by numbers—1, 2, 3, 4, 5.

Man about 5 feet, 6 or 8 inches tall, weight about 160 pounds, seemingly about 25 or 30 years of age, sallow complexion, blue eyes, light hair, stood erect, had rough hands, talked in rather a fine, rasping voice, wore dark clothes and slouch hat with low crown, and dirty white cloth mask, covering face below eyes.

Man about 5 feet, 6 or 8 inches tall, weight about 140 pounds, wore dark clothes and dark slouch hat, and dark mask covering face below eyes.

Information is also wanted as to two men described below:

Man about 5 feet, 11 inchs tall, weight 160 to 170 pounds, 40 to 50 years of age, sallow complexion, stands erect; wore mustache of sandy gray color, but may have shaved it off, wore brown overcoat reaching below knees and slouch hat, black or dark blue, with tall crown and broad brim; talked like a westerner, and claimed to have traveled in Michigan.

Man about 5 feet, 6 or 8 inches tall, weight 130 to 140 pounds, about 35 years of age, dark complexion, dark hair, clean shaven, somewhat bow legged, has a number of marks or pits on back of neck, and back of head is almost straight; shoulders slant, but he does not stoop; wore sack coat of dark material, black derby hat and a pair of new seal grain shoes, broad and heavy, talked like an Irishman.

Among the moneys stolen was a package containing paper currency, gold and silver coins of foreign countries listed below:

England,	France,	Germany,	Spain,
Russia,	Denmark,	Norway,	Sweden,
Canada,	Mexico,	Brazil,	Trinidad,
Peru,	Chili,	Hayti,	Panama,

and other Central American countries.

Some of the coins from this shipment, left in the safe, are bent, scarred and indented as a result of the explosion.

The robbers also stole and carried away the following articles:

Two handsome pearl ear screws.

One Howard hunting-case watch—number of case 7805096, number of movement 921372.

Package Customers' Notes and Mortgages, indorsed in blank by E. C. Teel, cashier, in favor of Cuthbert, Ga.

Package containing mortgage by M. B. Comer, of United States Mortgage and Trust Company, Interest Notes, and Abstract of Title.

FRED MILLER PROMOTED ON ILLINOIS CENTRAL

Former Atlanta Man Will Have His Headquarters at St. Louis.

Fred D. Miller, district passenger agent of the Illinois Central at Birmingham, who was for eight years one of the most popular railroad men in Atlanta, has been promoted to division passenger agent, with headquarters at St. Louis. He succeeds W. H. Brill, who has been promoted to assistant general passenger agent of the Illinois Central, with headquarters at New Orleans.

Mr. Miller's appointment is effective March 1, at which time he will leave Birmingham and make the Missouri metropolis his home.

The announcement of Mr. Miller's promotion will come as good news to the hundreds of friends he made while a resident of Atlanta. While representing his road here just prior to going to Birmingham he was among the best known and most popular of the city's railroad passenger men. That he has been appointed to a position only two grades below the head of the passenger department of his road is only what might have been expected from his enviable record here, his Atlanta friends assert.

Driver Monsen Injured.

Chicago, February 22.—Adolph Monsen, driver of racing automobiles and winner of the Indiana trophy at the Crown Point, Ind., races of 1909, was dangerously injured here today when the car which he was driving ran into a sand pile and turned turtle. Monsen was injured internally.

CORNERSTONE TO $100,000 ELK HOME LAID IN PLACE WITH THE TRUE ELK STYLE

SCENE AT CORNERSTONE LAYING AT ELKS' NEW HOME.
Picture shows large gathering of members and friends of Atlanta Lodge of Elks at laying of cornerstone of new home on Ivy street. The lot and building will represent an outlay of $100,000.

The cornerstone of the new $100,000 home of Atlanta lodge, No. 78, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, at 40 Ivy street, was laid with appropriate ceremonies yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock before a large assemblage of members and friends of the lodge.

One hundred and two members of the lodge, headed by Edward E. Clapp, esquire, marched from the present club house on Peachtree street to the new home site, where Exalted Ruler Walter P. Andrews officiated over the exercises.

The opening invocation was led by Rev. W. W. Memminger, rector of All Saints' Episcopal church, chaplain of the lodge, and following the reading of the ceremonies as outlined in the order's ritual for such occasions, the stone was laid in place by Colonel Andrews.

The following articles were deposited in a copper box in the heart of the stone: Three daily papers of Atlanta; list of members of the lodge; list of officers; list of grand lodge officers; names of building committee; copies of addresses of Mr. Memminger, Robert F. Maddox and Colonel Andrews; program of exercises; silk American flags; coins of date and three dollar gold coins; photograph of the exalted grand ruler; copy of the laws and by-laws, and an editorial by Elbert Hubbard on "The Elk."

Maddox Praises Order.

When the stone was placed in position, Colonel Andrews introduced former Mayor Maddox, an enthusiastic Elk, who delivered an address on "Elkdom as an American Organization."

Mr. Maddox said it was especially fitting that Washington's birthday should have been chosen for the ceremonies, as the American flag bears a unique part in the order's ritual.

"I know of no secret society which so closely combines good fellowship with good citizenship," said Mr. Maddox. "This institution owns property valued at nearly $16,000,000, and notwithstanding the comparatively short time it has been in existence, its members point with pride to the fact that it has already dispensed more than $4,000,000 in charity."

"Elkdom From a Standpoint of Charity" was the subject of an address which followed from Rev. Mr. Memminger. He spoke of charity in the broader sense of brotherly love, and declared that the order was doing great work in helping fellow men to live better and more useful lives.

Exalted Grand Ruler Andrews concluded the address-making with a fitting tribute to Elkdom and its work. He said that the cornerstone laying marked an epoch in the history of the lodge. In part he said:

Order's Broad Views.

"We do, indeed, feel thankful that the principles of Elkdom present a platform broad enough, big enough, free enough, tolerant enough, and good enough for all men of all sects, of all creeds, of all parties and of all phases of thought to stand upon, face to face, heart to heart, as equals and as brothers.

"At the altar of Elkdom we draw no distinction and recognize no shade of difference among the true devotees of any of the great religions of the world.

"We challenge no man's creed; we question no man's politics.

"We yield to every man, whether he be Jew or Gentile, Protestant or Catholic, or a worshiper at any other shrine, the absolute freedom of his chosen religion and the unfettered right to offer up his devotions to his God in manner and form as his conscience may dictate.

"We know that the world is moving forward and upward and we witness everywhere manifestations of a burning desire in the hearts of men for a greater freedom, for a broader liberality and for more light.

"Hence, the Order of Elks, recognizing these facts, has planted itself firmly and fearlessly upon the side of truth and tolerance and liberty and light, from whatever source they may come, or by whatever agency they may be brought into our lives.

"And, now, my brothers, in concluding this pleasant duty, let us all indulge the hope that ages upon ages may pass away ere this stone of purest marble which we now reverently lay as the cornerstone of our structure may be disturbed by the hand of man or the ravages of time.

"May the life of this beautiful edifice, which is to be dedicated to the honor and glory of Elkdom, project itself far into the future years, and may it ever preserve and always proclaim the everlasting principles of charity, justice, brotherly love and fidelity.

"Let us never forget that all men, everywhere, in the broadest sense, are brothers, and that God is the Father of us all.

Day of Celebration.

The benediction was pronounced by Rev. E. Dean Ellenwood, pastor of the First Universalist church, and the members then marched back in a body to the club house.

It was a day of celebration for the Atlanta Elks, and at night a reception and dance wound up the pleasures. Members of the lodge and their ladies attended the reception which was held in the club house.

The committee which had charge of the cornerstone-laying was composed of Edward E. Clapp, chairman; J. R. MacEachron, F. C. Walters, S. Asher, John S. Cohen, Walter Taylor, Bob Gordon, Macon Sharp and Walter Andrews.

CAPTAIN BOWEN TELLS OF A WAR ANNIVERSARY

Fifty Years Ago, February 22, the Calhoun Guards Were Mustered In.

Captain Thomas M. Bowen, a confederate veteran, who resides at 208 Forrest avenue, was in a reminiscent mood yesterday and remarked:

"This is Washington's birthday, and the anniversary never comes but what I recall vividly another anniversary of the war which comes on the same day. Exactly fifty years ago on Washington's birthday the Calhoun Guards, which was company A of the Second Alabama regiment, were mustered in to the confederate service. The company was organized at Jacksonville, Calhoun county, Ala., with one hundred picked young men of the county, there being only one married man among them. D. P. Forney was our first captain. He was wounded at the battle of Shelbyville, and I, who started out as third lieutenant, took command of the company, and held it until the close of the war. We enlisted at first for one year which we spent at Fort Morgan on Mobile day. We re-enlisted as a cavalry company, and were assigned to General John P. Morgan's regiment, which was the Fifty-first cavalry. We fought in nearly all the battles in the western army and surrendered at Goldsboro, N. C., on May 23, 1865."

Captain Bowen says that out of the one hundred men in the old Calhoun Guards only seven are living, and they are all over 70 years of age.

GOT A WRONG TICKET AND WANTS $10,000

Mrs. Mary Dinkeins, of Oklahoma, Files Damage Suit in Atlanta.

As a result of her obtaining a ticket to Thomasville, Ga., instead of to Thomaston, as she asked for, Mrs. Mary Virginia Dinkeins, wife of J. T. Dinkiens, of Oklahoma City, has filed suit for damages in the sum of $10,000 against the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railroad.

She is represented by Attorneys Reuben Arnold and Archibald W. Davis, of this city. The suit alleges that she suffered great humiliation from being dependent on strangers when she reached Thomasville without funds, and in her subsequent trip to Atlanta by the aid of charity, and also severe mental distress and considerable loss of time.

Mr. Dinkeins has been located through the aid of a friend of his, with whom he spent the night when passing through the city on his way back to Oklahoma City, where he thought to meet his wife. She had, however, come east to surprise him, and her mishap through the wrong ticket led to much traveling on her part. She will return to Oklahoma City shortly, well impressed with Atlanta, she says, in spite of her misfortunes while here.

Memphis, Tenn., February 22.—Secretary of War J. M. Dickinson is in the city today and will remain several days looking after personal business matters.

Hearing Refused in Singer Case

New Orleans, February 22.—The federal court of appeals yesterday refused a rehearing in the case of the Singer Manufacturing Company, appellant, v. Wirt Adams, state revenue agent, et al., appealed from the circuit court of the United States for the southern district of Mississippi. The suit involved quite a sum in back taxes, from 1887 to 1903, and a judgment was awarded State Revenue Agent Wirt Adams in the lower court.

COKER IS GIVEN 10-YEAR SENTENCE

He Was Charged With Taking a Countryman's Turkey Money.

D. N. Coker, who, together with Ed Regutti, was arrested on the charge of highway robbery, was yesterday convicted in the superior criminal court and sentenced by Judge L. S. Roan to ten years in the penitentiary.

The case was earnestly defended, and the testimony proved to be interesting.

J. W. Ferguson, the victim of the robbery, said that he had brought his wife's turkeys into town from his home at Meansville, intending to sell them. He secured $57 for the lot; and then, in search of amusement, went to some pool rooms on Decatur street. According to the evidence, he waxed cordial as the evening progressed, extending many invitations and carelessly displaying the aforesaid money.

Coker and Regutti, according to the testimony, got him out of the pool room, pleading that they wanted to take care of him. Instead, when they reached a quiet spot, one threw a pistol into his face, while the other went through his pockets.

The two defendants tried to prove an alibi, a number of witnesses testifying that the two had gone to another pool room with them and were there at the time of the robbery.

But the evidence was too strong against Coker, and he was convicted.

ARIZONA DELEGATION PASSES THROUGH CITY

On Way to Washington to Have "Progressive" Constitution Ratified by President.

A committee of the leading citizens of the state of Arizona passed through Atlanta en route to Washington, D. C., yesterday to have the new constitution of their state ratified by President Taft.

The new constitution is a progressive one, the power of recall being a clause in same, as is the referendum and other such features as are advocated by the so-called progressives throughout the country.

In the fight for this constitution but three papers in the entire state supported it, and sixty were against it, yet when it was put to a vote of the people 80 per cent of the voters were in favor of it.

Several other members of the committee went to Washington over other routes. Those who passed through Atlanta Wednesday were C. H. Akers, editor of The Arizona Gazette; E. B. O'Neill, Henry Griswold, Frank Aris, Dwight B. Heard, all of Phoenix, and Colonel H. S. Pickett, of Toomsboro.

Mr. Akers confidently believes that President Taft will ratify the constitution when it is presented for his approval.

CITIZENS STILL WANT MISS PITTS REMOVED

They Will Hold Mass Meeting on Marietta Street Friday Night.

Dissatisfied with the action of the board of education in exonerating Miss Mamie L. Pitts, principal of the State Street school, of the charge they brought against her, the committee of ten patrons has called a mass meeting of patrons of the school in the fifth ward for Friday night to make a protest.

The meeting will be held at the residence of Judge W. C. Horton, 767 Marietta street, at 7:30 o'clock.

The principal complaint against Miss Pitts was that, though an able instructor, she is not fitted by temperament to be in charge of children, that she was harsh and not considerate of their feelings. This complaint was investigated by the board of education last week, and Miss Pitts was finally exonerated.

It is stated that those instrumental in making the charges are still anxious to have the principal removed, not being content with the result of the investigation. Just what result the protest meeting will have now since he board has rendered its verdict cannot be foretold.

MAY DECIDE CASE OF STREET CAR CO.

State Railroad Commission May Make a Ruling This Morning.

Two matters of special interest to the public will come up for consideration and probably for final disposition at the regular session of the railroad commission which will be held at 10 o'clock this morning.

One of these is the Atlanta street car case in which the commission has under consideration the question of all-night cars for Atlanta and the improvement generally of the street car service in this city. Chairman Hill stated Wednesday that the commission may be ready to announce a decision Thursday, but if not, there will probably be a final announcement made some time during the present week.

The other important matter which the commission will consider and which will be decided Thursday, in all probability, is the selection of a rate expert to succeed George F. Montgomery, of Marietta, who has resigned.

Mr. Montgomery's resignation becomes effective on March 1, so that it is necessary for the commission to decide at once who it will name as his successor.

O'Neal's Veto Overriden.

Montgomery, Ala., February 22.—For the first time in the present legislative session, Governor O'Neal's vote was overruled when the house today passed by a vote of 59 to 32 a bill allowing Tallapoosa county to borrow $20,000. The executive's action was overridden after lengthy debate.

Conroe, Tex., Fireswept.

Houston, Texas, February 22.—Conroe, Texas, was swept by fire today which did $150,000 damage. Conroe is 40 miles north of Houston on the International and Great Northern railroad.

ROYAL INDEMNITY OPENS IN ATLANTA

City Will Be Headquarters For Thirteen States.

The Royal Indemnity Company, an American organization, controlled by the Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool, will open headquarters for thirteen southern states here about March 15. The offices will be run in connection with those of the Royal Insurance Company which now occupies the eleventh floor of the Empire building. The company will do a general casualty business.

Milton Dargan, who is already southern manager of the Royal Insurance Company, with headquarters here, will act as manager of the American company as well, while Charles F. Frizzell, of Nashville, Tenn., one of the leading insurance men of that state, will come to Atlanta to take charge of the southern department of the new company, with the title of resident assistant secretary.

The offices which the Royal Indemnity Company will occupy have not yet been definitely selected, but it is understood that they will probably be housed in the Empire building, taking almost the whole of one floor. The new company will employ something over twenty-five men in their local offices.

They Told Him I Was a Quack

ONE of the patients I am now treating came to me because he was told not to. He is one of those men who despise what they term "knocking," and, as he told me afterward, he considers every "knock" a boost. However that may be, he was in a drug store talking to the proprietor, a doctor, when another doctor came in. The druggist-doctor knew this man's condition, and had treated him, without success. So he told the other doctor about it, and asked him to take the case. The patient remarked that he had read some of my talks, and thought he would see me. Then both doctors declared I was a quack—that I advertised. They admitted, when questioned by the patient, that they did not know me; had never known anything of my work or of the lifetime I have devoted to research and study. They just "knew" I was a quack—that I advertised. This kind of argument didn't convince the patient, and he called on me. I made a thorough examination, and found a serious irritation of the deep urethra. I explained his case to him, and frankly told him I didn't know whether or not I could cure him. I told him I thought I could give him relief, and in the end I might cure him, but I wasn't positive. He replied by beginning treatment, and he told me I was the only doctor of the many he had consulted who had been frank with him and who had not promised a cure. I told him, and I state again, that I have studied nervous disorders, diseases of men and chronic diseases for thirty-four years, and I know them. For that reason I believe in letting people know what I can do. I want people to know this. Some doctors get other people to tell what they can do. I tell this myself, and I do what I say I will do. If I can't do anything, I say so. I'll see you from 8 to 7; Sundays and holidays, 10 to 1. My booklets are free by mail in plain sealed wrapper.

FRIENDLINESS

AND THE Y. M. C. A.

All social, commercial, athletic and other clubs of our cities are a direct answer to a definite demand—a desire for pleasurable amusement and companionship—the club instinct—inherent in every man.

It is just his need which the Y. M. C. A. supplies—only with enlarged offering. Pleasurable Amusement — Companionship — these are offered. And in addition, there is the higher and better element of FRIENDSHIP.

The greatest need of the human heart—the power that has wrought more wonderfully than any other human quality—is friendship. Every boy, every man must have it.

The most attractive thing about the whole Y. M. C. A. movement is its—FRIENDLINESS.

It permeates every department, every scheme, every new endeavor.

How any boy or young man can be hedged about with safeguards, if only his friends are of the right sort.

Will you, men and women of Atlanta, display less of this beautiful quality toward the institution that stands for it and has practiced it so consistently and so helpfully through all these years—less of friendliness than it merits?

"He only is fit for society who is magnanimous. He must be so to know its law. He must be one who is sure that greatness and goodness are always economy."

Shall we not give our own Y. M. C. A. a richly deserved reward of merit—put our stamp of approval on her faithful work—set free her fettered hands—enlarge her sphere of activity—make possible her practice of a larger FRIENDLINESS?

AND LET'S DO IT NOW, WHILE WE HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY—AND WHILE HER NEED IS GREAT.

THE TIME IS TODAY!

COMRADE OF LIEUT. PENDLETON PAYS TRIBUTE TO CHARACTER

Craig Harris, a traveling salesman for a Philadelphia wholesale drug-house, a native of Hagerstown, Md., a cadet for two years at the Virginia Military Institute and a lieutenant in a Maryland regiment when volunteer troops were massed in Florida for the invasion of Cuba, was in Atlanta yesterday, a guest at the Kimball.

"I see the soldier boys of Georgia are leading an energetic movement to secure the release of Charles Pendleton, now in a military prison in the Philippines. I enlisted in a Virginia regiment, and, while in camp in Florida, I came in contact with the Georgia troops, and met, among others, Pendleton. We were about the same age, and it was but natural that we should become friends. If I ever ran across a 'whiter' or a better soldier than Pendleton, I don't recall it. If he ever did a thing for which a soldier could blush, I never heard of it. To the casual observer, Pendleton appeared one of those creations West Point alone can turn out. As I knew Pendleton, he was not the man to take advantage of anyone under any conditions, but would give all a chance for his life—even in a hand-to-hand struggle. The Pendleton I knew would never kill unless in self-defense. I hope the hoped-for pardon may come."

SECRETS OF NAVY BEING DISCLOSED

To Get Business for American Ship Builders.

Charge Is Practically Made in Senate by La Follette, Who Introduces a Resolution for an Investigation — Secretary Knox Involved.

Washington, February 22.—Senator La Follette today demanded an investigation of published charges that government naval secrets are being disclosed to the Argentine Republic through the construction of two battleships for that country in the United States.

Two resolutions were introduced in the senate today by Mr. La Follette designed to bring information from the departments of state and navy concerning the contracts which private shipbuilding concerns received from the Argentine Republic for the construction of two battleships, and whether administration officers were responsible for the procuring of this business for shipbuilders.

Among the criticisms of the manner of bringing these contracts to the United States, the charge was presented today that Secretary of State Knox, through communications to American Minister Sherrell, at Buenos Ayres, influenced the situation by guaranteeing up-to-date men-of-war for Argentina through the application of secret equipment devices used in building vessels in the United States.

A resolution calling upon the secretary of the navy for information goes much further. It demands communications between the navy department and private shipyards, and inquires what, if any, plans of guns or appliances pertaining to the armament of battleships were transmitted or communicated either to representatives of Argentina, or to any shipbuilding company.

PARKS BILL BEFORE THE ALABAMA HOUSE

The Measure Was Sent to the Committee on Temperance.

Montgomery, Ala., February 22.—The Parks bill to regulate the sale of liquor in saloons or dispensaries in Alabama was introduced in the house today and sent to the committee on temperance.

The license fees under the Parks bill are set out as: Retailers, $1,000; wholesalers, $1,200; distillers, $1,200; brewers, $1,200, and social clubs of two years or more selling only to their members, $600.

The saloon limitations under the bill are:

In class A, one to each 1,000 of population.

In class B, one to each 500 of population, and in classes C and D, one to each 1,500 of population.

Before the morning session adjourned, Representative Smith, of Montgomery, made it evident that he intends to introduce his regulation bill some time this afternoon.

The temperance committee will meet on Wednesday night at the capitol.

HOUSE CLEARING DECKS TO AVOID SESSION

Washington, February 22.—The house of representatives is rapidly clearing its calendar so that no responsibility for what now appears to be an inevitable extra session can be charged to the lower branch of congress. Today three big appropriation bills, carrying in the aggregate $135,000,000, were passed. Of these the naval act carried $125,400,000, the fortification $5,300,000 and the diplomatic and consular bill about $4,100,000.

The house now has only there more supply bills to pass—the sundry civil, the general deficiency and the military academy. The latter probably will not occupy more than a few hours. So the chances are that the house will be marking time when March 4 arrives.

The naval bill, having been approved in committee of the whole last night, was quickly disposed of today. A motion to recommit and cut down the building program from two battleships to one was lost.

ATLANTA DETECTIVES NAB BARTOW "TIGERS"

Cartersville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—A public-spirited citizen of this city who saw evidences of too much traffic among the boot-leggers and blind tigers, decided to import some negro detectives in order to catch the negroes who were thought to be dealing in liquor. Two smooth ones were brought to Cartersville from Atlanta, and were placed under the direction of Sheriff Smith, who detailed them upon the boot-legger cases. That they did their work well is evidenced by the fact that seven negroes were placed in jail to answer the charge of selling liquor upon the evidence gathered by the negro detectives.

Edwards was appointed temporary receiver by Judge Felton till a hearing is had.

Over the terrible financial losses due to insects. If all the money paid in taxes and lost in fires and business failures were put together, it would not begin to equal losses caused by bugs, flies, ants, fleas, mosquitoes, not to mention others. Insects carry disease from sick to well and from animals to human beings. Something must be done at once. The most effective remedy known is Maurer's Insect Powder. Harmless to mankind and domestic animals. In use 62 years. Never fails. Boxes, 10 and 25 cents. All druggists. Insist on Maurer's. There is no substitute.

FLORIDA WOMAN HURT IN JUMP FROM BUGGY

Mrs. M. F. Watts, Atlanta Visitor, in Critical Condition at Grady Hospital.

Jumping from a rapidly moving buggy on Capitol avenue, Mrs. M. F. Watts, 63 years old, yesterday morning probably sustained fatal injuries by her fall to the pavement. She was taken to the Grady hospital and is said to be in a very critical condition. Mrs. Watts came to the city from Florida a short while ago and has been living at 11 Capitol avenue. She is the mother of J. R. Watts, of the Watts Publishing Company.

Mrs. Watts was thinking of buying a home in the city and was going out to inspect some property in a buggy sent her by the Rivers Realty Company. She got into the buggy while the negro driver was gone on an errand, and the horse started off. Frightened, she jumped out and was picked up unconscious. The base of her skull is fractured and her age makes recovery doubtful.

MAJOR HOUSTON BURIED WITH MASONIC HONORS

Funeral Was Held Yesterday Afternoon at Decatur Presbyterian Church.

The funeral of Major W. J. Houston, one of the oldest pioneer citizens of this section, who died Tuesday afternoon at his home in Decatur after a long illness, was held yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the Decatur Presbyterian church, Rev. J. G. Patton officiating. He was buried with Masonic honors, Atlanta lodge No. 59, F. & A. M., acting as an honorary escort. He had been, at the time of his death, a Master Mason longer than any other member of the Atlanta lodge.

Major Houston was one of the most prominent railroad men in the state, having held responsible positions on the Western and Atlantic, under Governor Joseph E. Brown, and afterdward on the Atlanta and West Point and Richmond and Danville. Later he was appoined a commissioner to adjust Indian claims by Secretary of the Interior Hoke Smith.

Several years ago he retired from active work and had since that time been living quietly at his home in Decatur. He was one of the best beloved men in that place.

DR. M'KIM DROPS SUIT FOR BIG SUM OF MONEY

Reported His Ex-Wife Will Marry Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt.

New York, February 22.—Society read with keen interest today an announcement of an agreement whereby Dr. Smith Hollins McKim consents to end all pending and prospective litigation against his former wife and her father, Dr. Isaac E. Emerson, for alienations of Mrs. McKim's affection.

The agreement has revived the report that Mrs. McKim, who recently obtained a divorce from her husband at Reno, Nev., is going to marry Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. Mr. Vanderbilt, it was said, today, at his home, is in London.

It is reported the agreement provides that a large sum of money will be paid semi-annually to Dr. McKim until his death.

JAMES H. VIVION DEAD.

One of Foremost Citizens of Cartersville.

Cartersville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—James H. Vivion, one of the most prominent citizens of this city, afternoon at 4 o'clock after an illness lasting for several weeks. He was a native of Clarke county, Kentucky. He came to this city more than twenty died at his residence here yesterday years ago, when, as agent for a Kentucky corporation, he founded the First National bank in this city, now one of the largest financial institutions in north Georgia. He was cashier of that bank for a number of years.

Funeral services were held this afternoon at the residence, conducted by Rev. L. G. Hames, after which the remains were taken to Lebanon, Ky., for burial. Mr. Vivion is survived by his wife and three foster children, Miss Charlotte Marshall, of Cartersville; Reece Marshall, of Atlanta, and J. V. Marshall, of Atlanta. He was about 75 years of age.

MANY BABIES TO CONTEST FOR PRIZES AT BABY SHOW

One of the most interesting features of the pure food show, which is being conducted at the annex of Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose, will be a baby show which will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The babies entered for the contest will be divided into three classes as follows: First, babies any age up to 1 year; second, babies from 1 to 2 years; third, babies from 2 to 4 years.

There will be six handsome prizes offered in the contest, one for a boy and one for a girl in each of the three classes. The prizes will be on exhibit at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the same room in which the cooking school was held.

An admission of 25 cents will be charged and the money will be donated to the Home for Incurables.

98 NEW ENGLANDERS SPEND DAY AT TUSKEGEE

Tuskegee, Ala., February 22.—Ninety-eight school superintendents from the New England states spent today at Tuskegee en route to Mobile to attend the meeting of the department of superintendents of the National Educational Association, which convenes tomorrow.

The visitors inspected the various departments of Booker T. Washington's negro industrial school and in the afternoon listened to an address by Seth Low, of New York, president of the board of trustees of the Tuskegee school.

Brief speeches also were made to the students by A. L. Rafter, assistant superintendent of schools of Boston; Arthur D. Call, superintendent of schools of Hartford, Conn.; Charles P. Rosser, deputy commissioner of education of Massachusetts, and others. The visitors left tonight for Mobile.

TABLET UNVEILED ON HISTORIC SPOT

Shaft of Granite Marks the Place Where Spring Hill Redoubt Stood.

Savannah, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—A simple tablet of bronze, set in granite, was unveiled at 4 o'clock this afternoon where the Spring Hill redoubt stood during the revolution.

It marks the site where was fought the bloodiest fight, next to that at Bunker Hill, in the war of the revolution.

Representing France, whose troops, under Count d'Estaing, fought by the side of Americans in the battle of Savannah October 9, 1779, Viscount Benoist d'Azy, lieutenant commander in the French navy, and naval attache at the French embassy at Washington, delivered an address.

Judge Walton G. Charlton represented the Sons of the Revolution. Admiral Fox, commandant at Charleston nacy yard, and United States regular troops from Fort Screven were present.

Miss Margaret Charlton, daughter of Judge Charlton, and Miss Isabelle Harrison, descendant of Colonel Isaac Huger, who planned the assault upon Spring Hill redoubt, unveiled the tablet.

HEATH AND REWIS SOCIETY ORATORS

The University Societies Hold Anniversary Exercises.

Athens, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The anniversary exercises of the two literary societies of the University of Georgia last night were perhaps the most enjoyable ever held in the history of the organizations.

The Demosthenians celebrated their 110th anniversary, while the younger Phi Kappa Society has been in existence now only 9 years. The address of the representative for the older society, Mr. Millard Rewis, of Collins, Ga., on "Dollaracy," was a fine piece of oratery well thought and aptly worded.

The oration of Mr. Evan Heath of Girard, Ga., for the Phi Kappas, on "The Educated Man in Politics," was also a splendid contribution to the long list of brilliant anniversary addresses which have been made in the historic chapel of the university on similar occasions.

The university band furnished several excellent numbers for the occasion.

Death of Mrs. Florrie Griffin.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Mrs. Florrie Griffin, wife of D. C. Griffin, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Grayson, of Guyton, Ga., died this morning at the family residence on Elm street at the age of 33. Her husband, two children, her parents and several brothers and sisters survive her. The remains will be carried to Guyton for the funeral and interment tomorrow.

SUMTER FARMERS OUT IN FORCE

Thousands Interested in Farm Train Exhibits.

Despite Biting Cold, Planters Turn Out by Thousands at Americus, Preston and Cusseta---Much Interest in Boys' Corn Club Exhibit.

Americus, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Three thousand enthusiastic farmers, business and professional men greeted the agricultural train here this morning despite the freezing weather which deterred hundreds from attending the exhibition.

Mayor J. Edward Mathis welcomed the party to Americus, and spoke enthusiastically upon the splendid accomplishment of the college on wheels, to which Dr. Soule made response.

The student body of the third district agricultural college marched to the Seaboard Railway depot with the college cadet band of twenty pieces, while the Americus public schools likewise attended the exhibition. Five hundred school pupils passed, viewing the highly instructive display.

The crowds of farmers were especially pleased with the corn club display, the dairy exhibits, the carload of machinery and the live stock.

Professor Fite spoke at length upon the subject of fine stock raising, and discoursed upon the qualities of the animals exhibited.

Following the lectures those who had not been through the cars went back and visited the numerous exhibits.

Interest in Boys' Cor nClub Exhibit.

One of the chief sources of interest was the boys' corn club exhibit. This movement has met with considerable enthusiasm in Americus and Sumter county, and close attention was paid to the prize ears and tables of fertilizers, etc., that constituted the exhibit.

The fact that the agricultural special made three stops in Sumter county kept many farmers from attending the exhibition in Americus this morning, as they saw the train at Leslie and Plains, both points nearer their homes.

The exhibit here was a splendid success, and President Soule, Commissioner Hudson and others aboard the agricultural special were delighted with the enthusiastic reception extended.

Webster Planters See Farm Train.

Peston, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The agricultural train reached Preston on time. Many farmers were present. Children from three schools added to the interest of the occasion.

Dr. Soule made an instructive lecture. Several other officers of the train lectured on poultry, farming and stock-raising.

The visit of the special here will prove an encouragement to farmers in divers ways—in improving lands, promoting an intensive system of agriculture, diversification of crops and stimulating stock-raising.

If the suggestions of Dr. Soule and Dr. Bronson are followed, Webster county will emerge from a state of lethargy to one of success and prosperity.

Chattahoochee Farmers Out in Numbers.

Cusseta, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The educational train arrived here at 2:15 o'clock this afternoon. There was a large crowd of farmers to greet the special, some coming 18 to 20 miles, in order to see the train and hear the speeches.

A committee, headed by Mayor R. L. Harp, was at the depot to meet and welcome the party in charge of the train.

C. C. Minter, a lawyer-farmer, welcomed the train party in behalf of the citizens and farmers of Chattahoochee county in a short speech.

There was much interest displayed by the 300 or 400 farmers present.

Dr. Soule's talk to the farmers was especially good. All showed deep interest in what he had to say.

The live stock seemed to attract much interest, as did the other exhibits.

Many of the farmers present were heard to say after the train departed that they felt well paid for their trip to see the train.

ANNUAL EXERCISES HELD BY SENIORS

Class Tree Day Observed By Class of 1911 at Young Harris.

Young Harris, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The feature of the annual celebration of Washington's birthday at Young Harris College was the Class Tree Day exercises of the senior class of 1911, which were held in the Susan B. Harris chapel this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Each year the senior class employs its best talent and puts forth its greatest effort in the preparation of the exercises for class tree day, which is always one of the most pleasant features of the spring term, and this year was no exception to the rule. The class song, which was unique in its originality, made a great hit with the large body of students and citizens who were present.

The program for the occasion was as follows:

Prayer—Rev. J. A. Sharp.
Song, "A Tribute to the Faculty."
Air—"Heidelberg"—Gustav Luders.
President's address—Christian College Culture—R. D. Pounds.
Class History—R. H. Green.
Piano Solo—"Valse de Concert," (Wienawski), Rebie Allen.
Class Poem—W. J. Culpepper.
Class Jester—John M. Outler.
Vocal Trio—"I Cannot Break the Old Ties"—John R. Middlebrooks, John M. Outler, Roy C. Childs.
Class Prophecy—Troy C. Davis.
Class Will—Frances M. Holden.
Class Song—Air, "The Last Farewell"—Charles G. Harris.

An excellent musical program was arranged for the exercises by Miss Maymie Weaver, teacher of music at Young Harris college.

Varied Program at Savannah.

Savannah, Ga., February 22.—Savannah observed the birthday of George Washington on a varied scale. The principal event of the day was the unveiling at 4 o'clock this afternoon of the tablet which marks the spot where the Spring Hill redoubt stood during the revolution.

Two battalions of the First regiment of infantry and the famous Chatham artillery fought a sham battle in the suburbs, the members of the Savannah Automobile Club went on a long run into the country, and the Boy Scouts of the Y. M. C. A., made their first hike through the wilds of Chatham county. There was also an athletic exhibition by the Y. M. C. A. in the park extension, which was witnessed by hundreds.

Dawson Celebrates.

Dawson, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Washington's birthday was observed by Dawson banks, postoffice and public schools.

In the auditorium this morning the first, second and third grade pupils successfully carried out an enjoyable program, consisting of speeches, readings and songs appropriate to the occasion.

OPPENHEIM'S WHISKIES

Created to Excel

BUILT around the name of Oppenheim are whiskies that years and years ago laid the foundation of a class of stock that for delicacy of flavor and chemical purity has never been excelled. So if you would fully appreciate the meaning of "whiskey quality," try Oppenheim's.

Oppenheim's Whiskies are equally as popular for medicinal use in the home as for social prestige at the club, for they are as wholesome and dependable as smooth and palatable.

Our record in the past, our aim today, and our ideal for the future assures every user of Oppenheim's Whiskies that he is getting the purest whiskey that can be distilled, and the best stock that his money can buy. Your money back if not perfectly satisfied.

AUTOISTS OF TWO STATES ENJOY GEORGIA BARBECUE

Waycross, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—At a typical Georgia barbecue, on the banks of the Satilla, at Owens' ferry, southeast of Waycross, today, enthusiastic autoists of Jacksonville, Fernandina, Brunswick and Waycross gathered for a discussion of highways.

The official route between Jacksonville, Brunswick and Savannah was practically determined upon, and plans advanced whereby the road will be paved the entire distance.

The proposed southern extension of the national highway from Atlanta through Macon and on to Jacksonville was discussed with a view of deciding on a portion of the route. No definite decision was reached, but it is practically certain now that the route for both highways will be the same, as far as St. Marys river.

County commissions from both Florida and Georgia counties through which the route will pass were present, and took part in the discussions.

The Brunswick delegation was headed by S. K. Brown, president of the Brunswick Auto Club.

The Jacksonville delegation was headed by Herbert B. Race, who holds the time record for several runs in this section.

The barbecue was served by Oliver Dyal, and was a spread such as is seldom seen in this section.

A big convention of auto enthusiasts is to be called at Jacksonville in the near future to adopt a complete route for all proposed highways.

FRIDAY NIGHTS UNLUCKY FOR CHICKENS AT ATHENS

Athens, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Friday nights are unlucky nights for the chickens, fancy and ordinary, and the chicken owners, professional and amateur, in Athens. For the past six Friday nights there has been a case on each date of chicken thievery.

The son of the late Chancellor Walter B. Hill lost twenty fine-blooded hens last Friday night, after he had equipped his hennery with an electric burglar alarm, the thieves clipping the wire that led from his henhouse to his sleeping room, and then lifting a score of fine fowls.

HOG RAISING IN GEORGIA PAYS AS WELL AS COTTON

Barnesville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Mr. G. W. Langford, the well-known farmer living near the city, killed a Duroc Jersey hog Tuesday which netted 587 pounds, which is the biggest hog killed so far as reported during the present season. The hog was so big that Mr. Langford had to cut him in pieces in order to weigh him, and he states that if weighed whole the weight would have probably been 600.

The figures are so large that it reads like a "fish story," but Mr. Langford and others who saw the hog vouch for the correctness of the weight given. The animal was a perfect show, and many people went to see it before it was killed. Its head alone weighed 40 pounds.

Mr. Langford says it was not the old-time thick-skin, coarse Jersey, but the Duroc breed, which is thin-skinned, fine-quality meat. During the past year he has sold $125 worth of these pigs, and says he could now sell $500 worth if he had them, but he will not have any for sale before next fall.

Mr. Langord's success shows what can be done in hog raising in this section with intelligent attention to the idustry.

Americus, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Nearly $900 to date represents the cash sales of home-raised hams and bacon sold already by Mr. Robert S Williams, a prosperous live-at-home farmer near Americus, while his spacious smokehouse holds meat sufficient to last his family and farm hands the entire year.

Not one pound of western side meat is ever sold to Bob Williams. The shoe is upon the other foot.

Besides selling nearly $900 worth of meat already since Christmas, Mr. Williams has sold enough syrup, butter and eggs to pay all of his family expenses for the year.

In the poultry line Mrs. Williams keeps ninety industrious hens, and has sold recently one hundred dozen eggs in the Americus market, besides using quantities of them upon her own table. "Ham and eggs" constitute a daily dish upon the Williams breakfast table.

In his smokehouse there are stored away several tierces of home-made lard, hams, shoulders and yards of fine country sausage.

BETTER FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN THAN CASTOR OIL, SALTS, OR PILLS, AS IT SWEETENS AND CLEANSES THE SYSTEM MORE EFFICIENTLY AND IS FAR MORE PLEASANT TO TAKE.

ATLANTA GIRL HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Miss Westmoreland and Two Companions in Auto Wreck.

Savannah, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Miss Elvira Westmoreland, of Atlanta, had a narrow escape here this afternoon when an automobile in which she was riding collided with a street car.

Miss Westmoreland and the Misses Hendes and Louise Kelley had to jump for their lives.

The young ladies were badly shaken up, but not otherwise injured.

The automobile had three wheels crushed and the front axle bent and a portion of the front platform of the street car was broken off.

The accident was caused by Miss Hendes, who was driving, running into the path of the car when she attempted to dodge a wagon.

MRS. JOHN HOWELL IS BADLY BURNED

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Mrs. John Howell was badly burned today at noon at the family residence on Nelson street, when her clothing became ignited from a grate fire. Her husband, who was asleep, came to her rescue when she screamed, and the flames were put out, but he was also painfully burned.

THOUGHT HE SHOULD GO MAD WITH ECZEMA

On Face and Scalp. Dry, Scaly, Itching and Burning. Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment and After a Few Days, Eczema Was Cured.

"I suffered from the early part of December until nearly the beginning of March with severe skin eruptions on my face and scalp. At first I treated it as a trivial matter. But after having used castile soap, medicated washrags, cold cream, vanishing cream, etc., I found no relief whatever. After that, I diagnosed my case as eczema, because of its dry, scaly appearance. The itching and burning of my scalp became so intense that I thought I should go mad, having not slept regularly for months past, only at intervals, waking up now and then because of the burning and itching of my skin. Having read different testimonials of cures by the Cuticura Remedies, I decided to purchase a box of Cuticura Ointment and a cake of Cuticura Soap. After using them for a few days I recognized a marked change in my condition. I bought about two boxes of Cuticura Ointment and five cakes of Cuticura Soap in all, and after a few days I was entirely free from the itching and burning. My eczema was entirely cured, all due to using Cuticura Soap and Ointment daily. Hereafter I will never be without a cake of Cuticura Soap on my washstand. I highly recommend the Cuticura Remedies to anyone suffering from similar skin eruptions and hope you will publish my letter so that others may learn of Cuticura Remedies and be cured." EIGHTEEN NOVICES CROSS DESERT SANDS

Al Sihah Temple Has Big Meeting Followed by Splendid Spread.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Al Sihah Temple, Shriners, christened a baby camel in the streets this afternoon, and tonight took in eighteen novices, giving them their orders at a ceremony attended by a large number of visiting Shriners. The meeting was enthusiastic. The usual banquet late at night closed the day's events.

MACON TO SEND 100 MEN TO CONGRESS

President Long Busy Selecting Delegates to Atlanta Meeting.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—President A. J. Long, of the Macon Chamber of Commerce, is now engaged in the selection of 100 representative citizens of Macon who will represent the community at the sessions of the Southern Commercial Congress in Atlanta March 8, 9 and 10.

Two parties of citizens from the Central City will attend. One will go in automobiles and another by special car on one of the railway lines.

The Athens Delegation.

Athens, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—There will be an enthusiastic meeting at the city hall at 5 o'clock on Thursday evening to arrange definitely for the Athens congress to be held in Atlanta March 8 to 10. There will be a large automobile party, a representative student delegation, and about 75 professional and business men, capitalists and real estate men who will represent Athens and Clarke county at the great business gathering in the Capital City of Georgia next month.

CENTRAL POWER PLANT TO LIGHT BARNESVILLE

Barnesville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Mayor T. W. Cochran was this afternoon instructed at an adjourned meeting of the city council to sign a contract with the Central Georgia Power Company for their current, and as a result it is expected that plans will be consummated immediately by which the company's power will be furnished the city and various manufacturing plants.

Negotiations have been up for some time, but details had to be worked out which necessitated delay. The site for the station has already been selected, and the buildings will be erected in a very short time. The satisfactory conclusion of the matter is received with general rejoicing here, and it is believed that it will mean much for the development of the city.

District School Defeated.

Dawson, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—An interesting basketball game took place here last evening between the teams of the Third District Agricultural School of Americus and the Dawson High school boys. The game resulted in a victory for the latter by the score of 25 to 15.

Schofield Plant Damaged.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The engine and boiler room at the Schofield Iron Works was badly damaged by fire last midnight. Rapid work of the fire department saved a spread and a much greater loss. The damage done was about $5,000.

Bibb Convicts Escape.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—A negro convict from the county chaingang on the road near Bailey's mill escaped at noon today. Sheriff Hicks made an effort to track him with dogs, but a high wind and a chase through fields prevented the tracking of the escape.

CORDELE'S POLICE CHIEF ESCAPED AS BY MIRACLE

Cordele, Ga., February 22.—Chief of Police Sumner returned today from Worth county, where he had a narrow escape from being blown to pieces in a peculiar accident. He says that a farmer named Striebinger had some very valuable swine and desired him (the chief) to see the flock.

The farmer led the way to the pen and one of the finest "porkers" in the bunch was sound asleep and refused to get up. The farmer kicked the pig in the ribs and there was an explosion that took the chief of police off his feet, knocked the farmer down and blew out the side of the building. Incidentally it killed the pig.

It took the farmer some time before he discovered that a quantity of dynamite that he had hidden under the pen for blasting purposes was missing. The pigs had eaten this. Striebinger has decided not to kick any more pigs.

TRAMPS TO FRISCO AND BACK IN VAIN HUNT FOR CHILDREN

Savannah, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Weston's famous walking feats pale into insignificance when compared with the remarkable pilgrimage of Frank Schroem, a 99-year-old confederate veteran, who reached Savannah today, following a year's walk to San Francisco and back.

Schroem is in search of two daughto believe, were in San Francisco.

Being without funds, Schroem started out to walk the distance to the Pacific coast from New Orleans, La., in January, 1910. How he survived the terrible tramp; how he passed a nine days' trip across the desert beyond El Paso, suffering the horrors of thirstand hunger, make a narrative in which no credence might be placed unless it were for the thorough familiarity Schroem shows of the details of the trip.

With the solitary exception of a car ride across the bridge at St. Louis, Schroem has made the journey ent rely by foot. His despair at having failed to locate his daughte.s, is almost tragic. For hours at a time, when not walking, he sits silent and cheerless, staring into the past and vaguely wondering where in this broad land his daughters can be. His emaciated frame shakes with grief as he tells of his fruitless search.

From here he will go to Charleston, where he expects to spend the rest of his days.

3,900 RABBITS SHIPPED FROM ONE GEORGIA TOWN

Athens, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—A signed statement from one of the local markets is to the effect that his place of business between November 1 last year and February 15 of this year he bought and had shipped to him from one little station alone—Klondike, on the Gainesville Midland railway, near Gainesville—3,900 rabbits. He paid from 13 to 15 cents apiece for these rabbits and sold them at 20 cents.

His profits on the rabbits bought in three months from one little station alone mounted to $234. The statement was secured by Dr. John P. Fort, resident here, and prominent in fruit culture in north Georgia.

Dr. Fort, in view of the facts in this statement, has published a suggestion that if waste hill regions were fenced with wire, a small quantity of grain sown and the slightest care given the business there could be immense profit in encouraging the breeding of the common old field Georgia rabbit for market.

THE Election for 2nd Ward Councilman is today. I urge all in favor of Civic Improvement and the betterment of Atlanta to vote in this election.

Council seems to like "frills."

This is Elk week in Atlanta.

Answer that Y. M. C. A. impulse!

To the peach crop: "Good morning!"

They ought to get up peach insurance.

Instead of seeing red, Hobson is seeing yellow.

The hook worm has not as yet overtaken the boll weevil.

A good schedule to be revised downward is the spy system.

The postoffice department seems to need a vacuum cleaner.

Why not put congress under a commission form of government?

The senate ought to cut out Lorimer fireworks and get down to reciprocity.

Mr. Hobson ought to go to Mexico and study war as it is really conducted.

The Ananias Club does not recognize February 22 as being a part of the calendar.

Americus gets in on the Jacksonville-Atlanta highway. Another far stride forward.

Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and some merely inherit money.

George Washington was one president who didn't see the necessity of "coming back."

The latest fashion in sky-scrapers is afforded by the dividends of the banks in Georgia.

Aldrich is hooking fish in Georgia. His favorite fishing grounds are in the senate chamber.

What does congress want with another heating system, when the usual flow of hot air is on the job?

It does not seem to be so much a question of wetness in Alabama, as a question of how much wetness.

The British lords are about to see their finish, but the America lords still refuse to give the people a chance at them.

Maybe the arbitration treaty between the United States and Great Britain will get through in time to arbitrate the reciprocity pact.

In view of the imminence of an extra session, it looks like Champ Clark ought to be getting those Missouri mules groomed.

Mr. Hobson predicts war in ten months. By that time, however, congress will again be on its hands and the country won't care.

The house has applied the "gag" rule, but the performances of a few of its members are enough to make the public do the same.

Now the government is going to make allowance for the "evaporation" of whisky. Didn't know the government had a membership in a locker club.

What a pity that extra session of congress threatens to cut off Senator Lodge's vacation. He ought to have pleased the people of Massachusetts and taken an indefinite vacation.

THE APOTHEOSIS OF THE FEDERAL SPY SYSTEM

How effectual would be your work if you knew that every moment a hidden spy made a record of your slightest movement?

And yet that is the burden under which every employee of the new million-dollar Atlanta postoffice labors.

The most convincing evidence is documentary, and the photograph of the "spy promenade," published elsewhere today, tells its own story.

That photograph, and the system that devised the perpetual surveillance it represents, proclaims the apotheosis of the federal spy system.

The dark rectangular spaces in the walls of the photograph are outlooks from the spies' gallery. The gallery runs the circumference of this big room in which mail is "worked up."

The very entrance and exits of the spies' gallery are masked. Only the spies detailed to shepherd the men and women working below know their location. Reminiscent of the "mystic mazes," the "concealed labyrinths" and the "hidden doors" of the castles in the old feudal days, isn't it?

Yesterday The Constitution published a card from C. A. Stokes, former assistant superintendent of delivery at the postoffice. Mr. Stokes is one of the most reputable young men in Atlanta.

He resigned voluntarily, because he couldn't endure the exhausting strain of having his every movement watched and docketed.

He explained how the power of local officials, familiar with local conditions, had been nullified. They had been superseded, he showed, by inspectors imported from Washington.

He specified that these inspectors had made life miserable for "clerks and carriers" by "browbeating and bullying." Foremen and high and low officials couldn't turn around without "running to an inspector" for orders.

It recalls the practice of the old Roman empire sending proconsuls from Rome to rule the provinces, doesn't it? Or the present-day practice in Russia and Mexico and the revolution-ridden Central American governments, of the supreme tyrant sending petty satraps to bait, humiliate, persecute and intimidate "subjects" in the interior.

No sensible man for a moment denies the need of ordinary precautions in the postoffice or any other department.

But this flower of the spy system looks more like martial law than rule under a republican government!

Such unrelenting vigilance is only found in federal penitentiaries, where armed guards glower over convicted felons or where, from turrets, they keep ceaseless ward lest the murderers or thieves on the inside make a break for liberty.

But the men and women in the local postoffice, and in other federal buildings where this despicable system prevails, are not felons; they are citizens, with names untarnished, with record clear, with homes and families on the outside dependent on them for bread.

The federal spy system assumes they are potential criminals the instant they enter the service. Every moment they must be guarded, like convicts on the chain, lest they plot crimes or mischief.

Is it any wonder that, as Mr. Stokes testifies, the service is hopelessly demoralized? How can it be otherwise, with men and women on a continual tension, expecting the least innocent gesture or word out of the ordinary to be caught up by ambushed spies and distorted into a crime-in-the-making?

With the postoffice department asking for more than a million dollars to increase the rigors of the spy system, what may not next be expected?

What assurance will business men outside the government service hold that their constitutional guarantees of freedom, their right to life and the pursuit of happiness, will not be absolutely nullified by beaurocratic despotism?

For, abominable enough in itself, the condition we have cited is merely the beginning of the spy system! If it honeycombs and hamstrings one department, it works the same deviltry in others.

Is it not time for congress to probe deeply into this Russianizing of American government?

ALL SHOULD GIVE TO Y. M. C. A.

The last hours of the whirlwind campaign for the Young Men's Christian Association finds the $600,000 fund uncompleted, but with conditions such that the promotors are more than ever determined to win success.

It will require two or three days more, perhaps, to close up the subscription.

Every Atlantan who has not contributed should do so without delay!

Hundreds of citizens who have not yet subscribed should be represented on the list by large figures.

If all gave in proportion to their ability, and their usual public spirit, the fund would be made up forthwith!

It is needless to detail the cause with which the Y. M. C. A. appeals to the people.

The sole question is—how much are YOU going to give to meet the appeal?

From a civic standpoint, from a humanitarian motive, from an economic standpoint, the Y. M. C. A. movement has a right to call upon EVERY CITIZEN.

Sunday will see the fund completed, if every man who should GIVE loses no time in doing so!

A HOT HOUSE FOR NEGRO CRIMINALS.

The need of a reformatory for negro juvenile criminals was never more strongly emphasized than during a recent session of the criminal branch of the superior court under Judge Roan.

One after another youthful negroes charged with such offenses as horse stealing, larceny and burglary were brought before the judge, until he finally exclaimed, "The court has been turned into a nursery!"

Worse than that, under the inadequacy of Georgia's system of dealing with her criminals it had been turned into a forcing plant for criminals.

The law in this state does not provide penalties for offenders under ten years of age. For offenders between ten and fourteen years of age imprisonment is so arranged as to permit the youthful offender to associate with the hardened criminal just long enough to become inoculated with chronic criminal impulses.

"These babies that are being turned loose today will tomorrow come back here confirmed law-breakers," said Judge Roan.

His statement is absolutely correct.

It is likely that these juvenile criminals are led to their first offenses by nothing more serious than the wayward impulses of youth.

Subjected to the proper restrictive influences, the balance of probability is that the majority of them would be transformed into law-abiding supporters of society.

Turned loose to roam the streets, or to live amid the irresponsible environment of the average negro home, there is little question that what was originally a mere errant impulse will become a fixed criminal tendency.

The same reasoning holds with the offenders between ten and twenty sentenced to the chaingang. Rubbing elbows with professional criminals who have burned their bridges behind them, these novices in crime absorb the virus of lawlessness at its source.

They return to society only to prey upon it. Experience breeds a contempt for law, or gives the offender a viewpoint which makes the crime of being caught greater than the crime of pillage and murder.

The inevitable upshot is that we are feeding jails, penitentiaries and draining the treasury at the source theoretically created to encourage respect for law and minimize crime.

A state reformatory for negroes would be self-sustaining and, in the end, save millions of dollars to Georgia.

STATE PRESS ON PRIMARY

Certainly.

(From The Powder Springs Pioneer.)
Certainly, a primary should be called to elect a senator. He is to serve the people, and the people have a right to say who they want.

For the People to Say.

(From The Savannah Press.)
Editor Stovall, of The Savannah Press, has written a very strong letter to Hon. Clark Howell telling why he thinks a senatorial primary is necessary. But no amount of argument is going to convince the present executive committee in the face of a single nod from its chief.—Valdosta Times.

It is for the people to say and for the papers to agitate. Unless some interest is taken in Georgia there will be very little done and the whole matter will go by default.

A Square Deal.

(From The West Point Herald.)
If the democratic (?) executive committee fails to call a senatorial primary, they will sow to the winds with the certainty of reaping the fury of the storm. Georgia democrats are not going to stand for anything short of a "square deal." Give us a primary, an open field and a fair fight—and then the "devil take the hindmost."

Only Chance.

(From The Vidalia Local.)
The only chance of an exciting election for Georgia during the present year rests with the general assembly when it convenes next summer. If the solons think that they can better select a man for the United States senate than can the voters, then Georgia will be spared a heated campaign until next year.

Wants No Primary.

(From The Sandersville Georgian.)
The Constitution still wants a primary election for United States senator and is being backed by Editor Watson, who clamors for the same thing. It is hoped that they will become reconciled to the inevitable, as the state committee opposes harassing people with a primary in an off year, as the legislature can elect a senator, and the law requires that the members shall perform this task.

Perfectly Natural.

(From The Elberton Star.)
Perfectly natural for the state executive committee to want to have their way about electing a United States senator. Also natural for the members of the general assembly to want to say who shall serve the people, without suggestion. There is hardly a single Georgian but who would be glad to have the privilege of naming the senator, and would exercise the privilege if he had it. If the people are willing for these servants to rule, the servants are not to be censured.

Found Four.

(From The Dublin Herald.)
Pleasant A. Stovall, editor of The Savannah Press and an avowed Smith man, favors a primary.

Strong Editorial.

(From The Harlem Sentinel.)
In a strong editorial The Atlanta Constitution wakes up the state democratic executive committee relative to the election of a United States senator to fill the unexpired term of the late Senator A. S. Clay. The Constitution is eminently correct in contending that this election should be submitted to the people. The democratic party of Georgia, by platform and otherwise, has been committed to this kind of a policy for years, and the people understand it and will be satisfied with nothing short of it being carried out.

Oyster Bay No. 2.

(From The Griffin News and Sun.)
Popular votes for United States senators is agitating all the United States except the vicinity around Newnan, where the chairman lives. All is placid there.

WATERWORKS REPORTS WOODWARD'S PROPERTY

So Special Committee States to Members of Water Board.

After hearing the report of the special committee appointed with reference to securing bound copies of annual reports of the water department which former General Manager Park Woodward has in his possession, the board of water commissioners yesterday afternoon ordered the report filed and took no further action.

The committee reported that Colonel Woodward stated the reports were his own personal property; that he had them bound at his own expense and for his own personal information, and that copies of the annual reports of the waterworks department should be on file in the office of the city clerk or the comptroller's office.

Colonel Woodward told the committee he would be glad to assist the board in securing a copy of each of the reports or would loan the bound copies in order that they may be copied for the benefit of the department.

The special committee was composed of Charles A. Barrett and Thomas F. Stocks.

Constitution Echoes

New Motto.

(From The Brunswick News.)
The Constitution suggests the new motto of Alabama, in vie wof the jab it made at the prohibition law the other day, is now "Here We Drink."

No Fatalities.

(From The Greenville, S. C., Piedmont.)
"Civil War Is Refought in Amicable Way in House," reads a headline in The Constitution. There were no fatalities.

Would Destroy Plot.

(From The Louisville, (Ky.) Post.)
The Constitution thinks it a pity that the El Paso police force is not allowed to cross the Rio Grande and put an end to that comic opera war. If they did it would destroy the plot.

Time Killed.

(From The Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union.)
The Constitution says: "At the end of its row congress is always conscience-stricken about the time it has killed." But why bother about it? Congress has killed time, but in less than four weeks' time will rise from the dead and retaliate by killing congress. And he who kills last kills best.

Girls.

(From The Paducah Democrat.)
According to Deacon Palmer, of The Constitution, "Girls whose grandmothers used to get outdoors and boil a big iron kettle full of maple syrup or soft soap, think they are doing something when they can roast a marshmallow in a chafing dish."

Auto Tumbles Into Creek.

Pittsburg, February 22.—An automobile party of six went over a 25-foot embankment at West Liberty, near here, and two women, Mamie Gregory and Annie McDonald, were dangerously injured. Four men, including the chauffeur, escaped injury and disappeared. The automobile turned turtle into a creek, pinning the two women under the machine in the water.

Geneva Courthouse Burned.

Montgomery, Ala., February 22.—Fire last night completely destroyed the Geneval county courthouse at Geneva, Ala., entailing a loss estimated at $25,000, fully covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown. All of the county records were rescued before the flames made much headway.

LAW THE ONLY SAFEGUARD TO LIFE AND PROPERTY

—Muscogee Grand Jury

Columbus, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—If the recommendation of the Muscogee county grand jury is adopted the county will erect a monument over the grave of Jailer A. A. Phelts, who met his death early in December while defending the jail from a mob, and an appropriation of $1,000 will be made to his widow from the county funds. It is extremely likely that both recommendations will be followed.

In the final presentments of the grand jury, just returned into court, much attention is given to the rioting which culminated in the attack on the jail, where a negro arrested on the charge of criminal assault had been confined. Shortly after the midnight attack on the bastile, resulting in the death of the jailer and a man in the street, a number of persons were arrested charged with riot, but all were subsequently released, the evidence being insufficient.

The grand jury, which has just adjourned, investigated the riot pretty thoroughly, but was unable to secure evidence that would warrant a bill. "We deplore the fact that so far we are unable to report much progress," says the body reporting to the judge, "but we believe the investigation should be carried further; therefore we recommend that if your honor should deem it advisable to bring the question before the grand juries of the succeeding terms and urge them to prosecute the investigation further."

Law the Only Safeguard.

An extract from the report of the grand jury follows:

"Under no circumstances would we place an obstacle in the way of having just punishment meted out to a wretch guilty of a heinous crime, yet we believe that the punishment should be imposed under authority of the law.

"Law is the only safeguard to protect our lives and property, and whenever any infraction of the law is perpetrated the one violating same should be punished so that the law may be respected and vindicated.

"Our courts are organized to administer the law, and every good citizen is honor bound to submit and be governed by due process, according to rules which have been evolved to best conserve the interest of our country.

"No set of men or organization have the right or authority to contravene the rights of the courts and presume to pervert or prevent the ends of justice," continues the grand jury. "In this connection we wish to commend and indorse his honor, Judge S. P. Gilbert, for his patriotic utterances and purpose to administer the law fairly and justly. We congratulate this judicial circuit in having a presiding judge with strength of character and backbone to stand by his convictions and apply the law without favor or affection.

Innocent Man's Narrow Escape.

"Some time since a petition asking for a special term of the court to try a prisoner charged with a dastardly crime was refused by his honor, Judge Gilbert, and some criticism was made as to the position taken by him. The accused might have suffered unjustly had his honor wavered from what he knew to be his plain duty. Subsequent transactions have disclosed that his position was correct, for the accused has been exonerated by the grand jury after a thorough investigation, and another, undoubtedly the real culprit, has been apprehended and is now held for trial."

Sam Swatzon, the negro who has confessed to the assault, is to be tried in Fulton superior court, a change of venue having been granted. The trial is set for tomorrow, and Solicitor General George C. Palmer left for Atlanta today to conduct the prosecution.

4TH DISTRICT DOCTORS MEET AT CARROLLTON

Dr. C. A. Dexter, of Columbus, Named President of the Society.

Carrollton, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The Fourth District Medical Society met here yesterday and last night, and was largely attended by the members throughout the district. A number of interesting papers were read by members of the society.

The main feature of the meeting was the address delivered in the afternoon to the profession by Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, Ky.

The program was closed by a publice address delivered by Dr. McCormack last night at the First Baptist church.

Dr. E. C. Davis, president of the State Medical Association, also delivered an address.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Dr. C. A. Dexter, president, Columbus, Ga.; Dr. H. J. Goodwin, vice president, Roopville, Ga.; Dr. Homer Boatright, secretary and treasurer, Carrollton, Ga.

The next meeting of the society will be held at Greenville, Ga., September 19.

No Baseball at Shreveport.

Shreveport, La., February 22.—All hope that Shreveport would retain her berth in the Texas League was shattered today with the announcement of Captain W. T. Crawford that he had received a check for the local franchise which he sold to Austin, Texas. The price paid was $6,000.

64,896,881 German Subjects.

Berlin, February 22.—The official census, concluded in December last, shows the population of Germany to be 64,896,881. The figures in 1905 were 60,641,278.

UNCLE SAM'S INMATES CELEBRATE HOLIDAY

Vaudeville Entertainment Given Them in Memory of Washington's Birthday.

Tom P. Holland, manager of the American theater, gave a very delightful and entertaining show at the federal prison yesterday morning in celebration of Washington's birthday.

Artists from some of the other theaters assisted in the performance. The following program was rendered:

Lincoln's Centennial March—Orchestra.
Songs—Vivian Dickey.
The Schoris in aerial feats.
Mr. McCarter in character singing.
Miss Rose Meyers, the "Iron-jawed soubrette," in acrobatic feats.
Miss Lucile Clayton in character songs.
Carey Taylor, comedian, in stories and monologue.
The Poloff Sisters, European character change artists.
Home-Coming March and Two-Step—Orchestra.

CITY NEWS

Lecture on General Lee.—Dr. James T. Smith will deliver his famous lecture on Robert E. Lee at the Inman Park Presbyterian church, Friday evening, February 24, at 8 o'clock. All are cordially invited No charges, the lecture being absolutely free.

Commission Is Issued.—Adjutant General A. J. Scott issued a commission as first lieutenant for James Arthur Fort, of Company L, Fourth battalion, Americus Light Infantry on yesterday. Lieutenant Fort succeeds First Lieutenant M. A. Dunn, who has resigned.

William Hecht Is Ill.—William Hecht, an old Atlanta, well known in hotel work, is seriously ill at his home on East Hunter street. Mr. Hecht has been a resident of Atlanta for years, having been for a long time connected with the Weinmeister hotel, long since closed. Since then he has been with many other hotels in the city.

At Mother's Beside.—Harry Dutton, local manager of the Piedmont, is now in Vermont, having been called east by a telegram from his old home announcing the illness of his mother. Mr. Dutton has many friends in Atlanta who hope he may find his mother much improved when he reaches his old home.

Alvin Bronk Better.—Alvin Bronk, well-known Atlantan who has been dangerously ill at his home, 409 East Georgia avenue, and whose condition was at one time extremely critical, is now improving nicely, and his physicians and the members of his family are now almost confident of an ultimate recovery. It may be weeks, however, before Mr. Bronk will be able to leave his home.

Rome Boys Held.—Confessing the theft of jewelry valued at several hundred dollars, Linton Lumpkin and Gentry Keel, two 15-year-old boys from Rome, are held at the police station until they can be returned home. Both were arrested by Detectives Rosser and Clarke—Lumpkin, on Tuesday, and Keel, yesterday. Their loot has been recovered by the detectives.

Founder of the Gideons.—John H. Nicholson, originator and founder of the "Gideons," will be in Atlanta on the 25th, 26th and 27th of this month, and will conduct the services at several of the leading churches of the city while here on next Sabbath. He will conduct the regular services at the federal prison on next Sunday morning, getting through in time to come back to the city for the church service. Mr. Nicholson will stop at the Piedmont hotel while in the city.

Larceny as "Cut-Up" Game.—C. V. Turner, of 168 North avenue, was yesterday bound over to the higher court by Judge Broyles under $100 bond for larceny from the house. Turner was arrested by Officer Lasseter Tuesday night for taking some silver from a local restaurant. In defense of himself Turner stated that he was with a lady at the time, and that his taking the silver was more of a cut-up game to amuse her than anything else. He said that he had no intention of stealing it, and took it openly.

Saul Is Fined $500.—J. Saul, one of the "big men" in blind tiger circles, yesterday pleaded guilty to selling whisky by the case and asked the mercy of the court because it was his first offense and he promised to go at once into legitimate business. In view of these facts, he was not given a stockade sentence, but was fined $500 or thirty days and was bound over to the higher court. Saul is one of four men who have been arrested for disposing of whisky in quantity, no sale being made for less than a case. The cases were docketed by Detectives Hewell and Hollingsworth.

Broker King Arrested.—On the charge of annoying the occupants of several of the offices in the Fourth National Bank Building Tuesday afternoon, when he is said to have created a disturbance up there, R. W. King, 35 years old, a broker of 32 Moreland avenue, was arrested yesterday by Patrolman Thornton at the instigation of the care-taker of the building. At the police station King stated that his arrest was a matter of spite on the part of the care-taker because of some trouble which they had six months ago.

CASE OF INTEREST TO FRUIT GROWERS

Decision of Interstate Commission May Be Applied in Georgia.

Great interest has been aroused throughout the fruit-growing section of the country over the decision of the interstate commerce commission on Tuesday in the case of the Arlington Heights Fruit Exchange against the Southern Pacific Company, and in view of the pending case of the Georgia Fruit Exchange against the Southern Railway et al. now before that body, this decision becomes of most pertinent interest, especially to the peach growers of Georgia and neighboring states, as it suggests a solution for the Georgia case.

Manager I. M. Fleming, of the Georgia Fruit Exchange, states that the California decision might suggest a remedy which could be applied to the Georgia situation wherein an effort is being made to have the present minimum car load reduced from $22,500 pounds to 19,000 pounds, through the adoption of a minimum of, say, 18,000 pounds where the peaches are not precooled and allow a minimum of 28,000 to 30,000 pounds where the peaches are properly precooled. By this means, it is pointed out, both the grower and the carriers would profit by such an arrangement.

There are some shipping points, in Georgia, where it would be impractical to establish precooling plants, and hence a very low minimum, where only refrigeration was possible, would be required, and other points where precooling plants could be established, and there this method would be adopted and heavier minima could be required, thus giving the carriers more tonnage and consequently a heavier charge for the haul, thus increasing the road's profits and at the same time would not be injurious to the shipper.

Manager Fleming pointed out that a minimum for those shippers who could not get the advantage of precooling, but would have to depend upon refrigeration, as now practiced, and another minimum for those hauls which could get the benefit of precooling, with a consequently increased tonnage, would solve the problem which has long vexed the fruit growers of the south. He stated that it was absolutely essential that the fruit growers be granted a minimum which could be refrigerated, in order that their fruit arrive at destination in good condition and without financial loss in shipment caused by paying for tonnage, not used, in order to ship only fruit that could be refrigerated.

He pointed out that if this solution were given to the Georgia case all fruit, whether precooled or refrigerated, could be handled with profit to the carrier and without loss to the shipper, and that gutted markets would be obviated and both carrier and shipper be benefited by the adoption of this policy.

MRS. LINNA HEFLIN DEAD.

Atlanta Relatives Deplore Her Loss.

News has reached Atlanta of the death of Mrs. Linna Bloodworth Heflin, who moved to Birmingham from Atlanta twenty years ago, which occurred on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Heflin, who was 70 years old, had been ill for several months.

She has several relatives in Atlanta who are left to mourn her loss, among these being her brothers, Litt and Judge J. G. Bloodworth; her son, Charles H. Heflin, and a nephew, T. F. Goodwyn.

The funeral was held Monday afternoon at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. A. J. Vickery, 4415 Second avenue, Avondale, Birmingham. Interment was in Woodlawn cemetery in Birmingham.

AGREEMENT IS REACHED ON WATERWAYS MEASURE

Washington, February 22.—Conferees on the rivers and harbor bill reached an agreement today, practically all of the senate amendments providing for new projects being accepted by the house members of the conference committee. They also accepted the rider put on in the senate providing for a material increase in the engineer corps of the army, which was made necessary by the almost complete surrender of the direction of river and harbor work and irrigation projects to the army engineers.

The proposed extension of two years in the life of the national waterways commission was modified so that it will expire November 4, 1911, by which time the final report of the commission is to be filed.

Contract authorizations were unchanged. They amount to $13,181,645, making a grand total for the bill $36,956,987.

INSURANCE MEN PULL FOR SOUTH

Fire Companies of South Organize.

To Keep in the South Millions Paid Out in Premiums, Southern Insurers Form Association—H. R. Bush Is Elected President.

To keep in the south the hundreds of millions of dollars which the south annually pays as premiums on fire insurance policies, thirty-five men, representing fire insurance companies in almost every southern state, met at the Piedmont hotel yesterday and perfected the organization of the Association of Southern Fire Insurance Companies.

Permanent officers were elected, a board of directors chosen, a constitution and by-laws adopted, and plans for the work which the association is to do were gone thoroughly into. The work was not finished, however, and another meeting will be held today.

There were something over thirty men present when the meeting was called to order for the morning session. These gentlemen came as representatives of the south's largest and most progressive fire insurance companies—North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi were represented.

Object of Association.

The matter of a constitution and by-laws was the first important business taken up at the morning session. The former provided for a president, vice president and secretary-treasurer as officers of the organization. H. R. Bush, of Greensboro, N. C.; John J. McKay, of Macon, and Dowdell Brown, of this city, were chosen to fill these places, respectively.

The object of the association as set out in the constitution is:

"The promotion of the best interests of the southern fire insurance companies; the betterment of conditions generally in the south; the creation of a stronger sentiment among our people in patronizing southern fire insurance companies; the co-operation with associations whose purposes are similar; to provide a plan for disseminating information among members touching their mutual interests; the encouragement of wise building and tax laws, and reduction of fire waste."

A board of directors composed of the officers of the organization and Dana Blackmar, of Columbus, Ga.; E. G. Selbels, of Columbia, S. C.; C. F. Hard, of Greenville, S. C., and W. J. Harris, of Atlanta, was selected.

Aid South's Development.

During the morning session, Wilmer L. Moore, president of the Southern States Life Insurance Company; J. A. Blaney, representative of the Southern Casualty Association; F. H. McMasters, insurance commissioner of South Carolina, and several others, addressed the meeting. Without exception, the speakers were most sanguine of the good results which the organization will produce.

They showed that Georgia alone is paying annually more than $5,000,000 in premiums on fire insurance, and that fully 90 per cent of this amount goes to the east and to Europe. They showed also that an organization such as is being formed, one which will teach southern people the importance of patronizing home industries, will not only cut down the enormous sum which is annually sent out of the state, but will prove a most potent factor in the commercial development of the south.

Letters from Governor Joe Brown and former Insurance Commissioner Julian, of Alabama, were read. Both gentlemen gave it as their opinion that the association is one calculated to do much for the south's future.

To Wage Publicity Campaign.

The afternoon session was executive, and, at this, plans for the work which the association aims to do were laid out.

Among other things, it is understood, a publicity campaign is being planned. By this, the association expects to show to southerners not only the vastness of the sums which are annually going from this section as fire insurance premiums, but to demonstrate clearly what the keeping at home of these sums would mean to the south. The meeting also favored the increase in compensation for southern agents, it is understood.

The association will hold another session at 9 o'clock this morning.

WILLIAM RILEY BOYD BURIED IN SAVANNAH

The funeral of William Riley Boyd, one of the most prominent figures in Atlanta, who died Tuesday night, was held at St. Luke's Episcopal church, of which he was a leading member, last night at 6 o'clock. Dr. C. B. Wilmer officiated. The body was taken to Savannah for interment.

Mr. Boyd was a northern man who came to Georgia before the war, settling at Savannah and enlisted in the southern army at the beginning of the struggle. After the war he lived at Savannah for some time and then came to Atlanta, where he was in the fertilizer business.

He took a great interest in all matters pertaining to the welfare of the people and became one of the best known men in this city through his work. The love borne for him by Atlantans was evidenced, yesterday by the many beautiful floral offerings.

Central Capital Association.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—A meeting of the executive committee of the Central Capital Association will be held tomorrow at noon at the chamber of commerce rooms. Important matters will be taken up and discussed.

R. H. Smith Is Improved.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—(Special.) R. H. Smith, clerk of the city court, who has been critically ill several days, has improved, and is now much better. Indications are that he will regain his former strength and soon be able to stir out.

DANGER SIGNAL

Tuberculosis Often Develops from Case of Catarrh. Disease Is Readily Cured. Some Good Advice.

Consumption and frequently death are not far ahead for negligent catarrh sufferers. The man or woman who neglects a case of catarrh is like the railroad engineer asleep at his work—rushing on to sure destruction. Those afflicted with the disease can usually trace its beginning to some little act which could have easily been avoided. Then delay and inefficient treatment allowed a humiliating and disgusting case of catarrh to develop.

There is no need that one should sniffle and cough and spit to the annoyance of those about him. There is a cure for all this and one can again return to the enjoyment of public gatherings, without disturbing your neighbors with your unwelcome acts. Catarrh is a poison which has lodged in the mucus membranes causing a depression and gradual destruction of the functions. If allowed to wander at its own will the disease gradually weakens the whole system. It then lays a firmer hold in the form of consumption and quick action on the part of a specialist alone can then save the life.

The Advanced Medical Science Institute can give instant relief in the worst cases of catarrh—that ends your misery. They can then bring about an absolute cure, too, but that is a somewhat slower process. If you have a mild case it will be an easy matter; if, however, time has been wasted in neglect and by inefficient treatment at home or by doctors who did not understand the complaint it will take more time. These specialists have a modern method and if they promise to cure you there is no doubt as to the result. They have cured hundreds who were miserable and can do the same for you.

The hours of the Advanced Medical Science Institute are from 9 to 12, 2 to 4, 7 to 8, and Sunday 11 to 12. Free examination and consultation for only three more days. ***

Weather Man Declares That the Cold Snap Will Soon Be Over.

Fair weather will prevail today, according to the official notice of the weather man, and although the day will start off with a temperature below freezing, the indications are that the mercury will rise several degrees during the day.

The mercury registered at 20 degrees early yesterday morning and at 2 o'clock the weather had moderated to 37 degrees. In the afternoon the mercury slumped again and last night was away down in the twenties.

The high pressure which causes the cold weather in Atlanta is still hovering over the western plains east of the Rocky mountains, but Weather Observer von Herrmann believes that by Friday the weather will become considerably warmer and that the crest of the cold wave will have passed over by that time.

"I don't care for any words of condolence—just go away and leave me alone; that's all I want," announced the Gopher with some display of peevishness. "I'm falling in line with the rest of the population and taking the mumps, I do believe. My jaw feels as big as the Candler building would look under a microscope and hurts like somebody had hit me with a passenger train.

"I feel now that I will soon be in position to sympathize most heartily with the young lady who had several engagements to go to the grand opera last summer and who woke up on the morning of the first day with an attack of mumps, which stayed with her until Caruso had gone home."

WOODMEN FIGHT COMES TO CLOSE

J. B. Frost Ousted As Head of Order.

Two Supreme Court Decisions Terminate Long Litigation. Judge Pendleton's Ruling Is Again Reversed and Judge Bell Is Sustained.

Two decisions rendered yesterday by the supreme court of Georgia terminate the long struggle in the courts for the control of the order of fraternal insurance known as the Eminent Household of Columbian Woodmen, finally ousting from the control of the order its former head, J. B. Frost, of Atlanta, and installing the opposing faction.

The headquarters of the Columbian Woodmen is in Atlanta, the principal office being located in the Rhodes building, on Marietta street, where a handsome suite of offices are maintained by a large force of officers and clerks.

The lodges of the order are distributed throughout the United States, but the greater portion of the membership of 16,000 is located in the southern states, where it has maintained a remarkable growth.

Started With Suspension.

The litigation was precipitated in the year 1909 by the action of the executive committee of the order in suspending its chief executive or eminent consul, J. B. Frost, on a number of charges involving his relations with the order.

Mr. Frost challenged the authority of the board of directors to order his suspension, and acting under the alleged authority of the charter, which conferred supreme power upon the incorporators, called a meeting of the original incorporators, which was attended by Hon. Hoke Smith and E. H. Thornton, W. F. Manry and J. B. Frost, to revoke his suspension and to nullify the powers of the board of directors. Governor W. J. Northen, General Clement A. Evans and Dr. P. E. Murray, who were among the original incorporators, declined to attend the meeting on the ground that the powers of the incorporators ceased under the organization of the corporation.

The board of directors then secured the services of Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman, and filed a bill in Fulton superior court seeking to enjoin Frost, Smith, Thornton and Manry from undertaking to exercise any powers as incorporators or from interfering with the board in suspending Frost or in conducting the business of the order.

Injunction Refused.

Judge Pendleton, before whom the case was heard, refused to grant the injunction, and ruled that the incorporators, under the terms of the charter, were still vested with supreme power in the conduct of all of its affairs.

The decision of Judge Pendleton was appealed to the supreme court, which rendered a unanimous decision last year reversing Judge Pendleton upon all the grounds of his decision, and restoring to the board of directors full control of the order.

Subsequently Mr. Frost, through his attorneys, Smith, Hastings & Ransom, filed an amendment before Judge Pendleton alleging that Mr. Frost had a contract with the order entitling him to retain his office for a term of fifteen years, and declaring that under his contract he could not be suspended by the board of directors.

Upon the amendment, Judge Pendleton again ruled that Mr. Frost could not be suspended, and that decision of Judge Pendleton was again unanimously reversed Wednesday by the supreme court, which declared that regardless of any contract, the board of directors had the right to suspend Mr. Frost under the charges preferred against him, and that he would be entitled to no compensation for any services rendered subsequent to the suspension, which had been wrongfully enjoined by Judge Pendleton.

Fund Left Impounded.

The fund from which Mr. Frost claimed compensation to the extent of $20,000 for services rendered prior to the suspension was left impounded by the decision of the supreme court, subject to the establishment of the litigated claims against that fund.

In the meantime some of the agents of the order in the department of Mr. Frost filed another bill, attacking the constitution of the order and the organization of its annual convention, and alleging that the officers of the order could not legally participate in the convention, their contention being represented by Smith, Hastings & Ransom, Henry C. Peeples and Burton Smith, and the Columbian Woodmen being represented by Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman.

After a lengthy hearing of the case Judge Bell sustained the contention of the Columbian Woodmen and refused to grant the injunction prayed for.

Judge Bell Sustained.

This decision was appealed to the supreme court by Mr. Frost and his associates, and the decision rendered Wednesday fully sustained Judge Bell's decision in every particular, confirming the constitution of the order and declaring the organization of its annual convention legal and valid.

The litigation has attracted considerable attention on account of the large amount involved in the assets of the Columbian Woodmen, the control of which was the subject of the litigation, and on account of the unique legal propositions involved in the case.

The effect of the two decisions rendered Wednesday is to remove J. B. Frost from office in, or control of, the order, and to vest its management in the present board of directors, which is composed of P. E. Murray, J. G. St. Amand, Peter F. Clarke, J. E. Penn and L. T. Binford.

The litigation involved merely a factional fight for control and did not in any way involve the business of the order, which has shown a remarkable increase since the litigation was commenced.

WHOLESALE DRUG MEN OPPOSE UNLAWFUL USE OF NARCOTICS

Correcting the impression that the National Wholesale Druggists' Association is not doing its full share in suppressing the illegitimate use of narcotics, Lynn Fort, manager of Lamar & Rankin Drug Company, sends the following statement to The Constitution:

"My attention has just been called to the resolution of the Atlanta Retail Druggists' Association, published in your issue of the 19th, condemning the unlawful sale of morphine, cocaine and other narcotics. The stand this association has taken meets with my hearty approval and support, and deserves the commendation and support of every citizen of Atlanta.

"As a member of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association I wish to correct the impression created by the resolution that the National Wholesale Druggists' Association was not doing its full share in the movement to suppress the illegitimate use of such narcotics. The National Wholesale Druggists' Association went on record over three years ago as being unalterably opposed to the sale of all powerful narcotics for other than legitimate purposes, and has overlooked no opportunity to give support to any movement tending to lessen such sales.

"The members of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association, while in full accord with the anti-narcotic laws of the various states, realize that a national law is necessary to control this traffic, and through the chairman of their legislative committee, Mr. Charles A. West, of Boston, Mass., a bill was prepared and brought before congress giving the internal revenue department authority to control all sales of powerful narcotic drugs and chemicals. This bill is still pending, and when reached on the calendar will not be overlooked by the members of the National Wholesale Druggists' Association. Very truly, LYNN FORT."

SAVANNAH RESIDENCE ROBBED OF JEWELS

Savannah, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The Savannah police have asked the police in the other cities of the state to be on the lookout for some $4,000 worth of jewelry stolen from the residence of L. McNeil, president of the Savannah Lighting Company.

The jewels were left by Mrs. McNeil in a chiffonier drawer while she entertained some friends at dinner.

When she returned the drawer had been forced open and the jewels were missing. Several arrests have been made, but the authorities are not believed to have a clue to the robbers.

Sorority Luncheon.

Mrs. Jack Hayes entertained at buffet luncheon yesterday in compliment to her cousin, Miss Martha Hall, the guests including the members of Miss Hall's sorority at Agnes Scott.

The sorority colors, red and yellow, appeared in many pretty details of decoration. Red and yellow tulips formed the table centerpiece; crystallized oranges and cherries continued the color combination, and they were repeated in features of a delicious menu.

Mrs. Hayes was gowned in rose-pink satin embroidered in shades of rose, and Miss Hall wore blue satin veiled with pink chiffon.

The guests were Miss Nellie Ferguson, Miss Gussie O'Neil, Miss Sina White, Miss Margarite Read, Miss Hannah Prater, Miss Annie Carpenter, Miss Anna Colquitt, Miss Agnes Jones, of Albany; Miss Theodora Willingham, Miss Mary Louise Spurlock, Miss Louise Van Dyke, Miss Mary Camp, Miss Essie Roberts, Miss Edna Taylor, Miss Suzette Joerg, Miss Marie McIntyre, Miss Ruth Black, Miss Rebecca Candler and Miss Mozelle Gann.

Bridge Series.

Delightful among the series of parties Mrs. J. W. Morrow has given in compliment to her attractive guest, Mrs. Walter Wilhelm, of New York, was a George Washington bridge party yesterday afternoon.

There were sixteen guests, and the four tables were placed about the reception rooms, which had tasteful decoration in ferns and red carnations. The score cards were hand-painted flags, and the table in the dining room, where delicious refreshments were served, was a study in red, white and blue, the centerpiece of carnations.

The bridge prizes were an English print, a jewelry box, its medallion top inclosing a print, and silk stockings. The guest of honor was presented a piece of cut glass and silver.

Dinner Party.

Yesterday evening at Marist the members of the eighth grade held their annual dinner party to celebrate the birthday of their patron, George the Immortal. Both the actual and former members of the class were present and a merry occasion it certainly was. Among the guests were Major Schmidt and Coach Joe Dean, both of whom helped greatly to make things hilarious. Of the speeches, especially well prepared and given, were those of Master Howard McCall, and of the class president, Victor Moore. Enthusiasm reigned throughout the excellent dinner and on the termination of festivities the college yell announced the beginning of another twelve months of expectation.

Hayes-Galhouse.

The marriage of Miss Annie Hayes and Mr. John H. Galhouse was solemnized yesterday morning at 8 o'clock at the Sacred Heart church, Father Gunn officiating, and assisting in the celebration of nuptial mass were Fathers Le Bihan, Rapier and Kennedy.

Mrs. Theresa Hoffman played the wedding march, and Miss Hazel Massa sang Millard's "Ave Maria" as the offertory.

The bride entered the church with her father, Mr. H. T. Hayes, and the groom with his best man, Mr. Edward Gillespie. Miss Mamie Kavangh, of Columbus, was maid of honor; Mrs. Charles Mallinson, matron of honor; Mr. Mallinson, groomsman, and Mr. A. S. Byers and Mr. John O'Keefe, ushers.

The bride was lovely in a white serge tailor gown with a white beaver hat. The maid of honor wore a white suit, her hat of white beaver, and the matron of honor wore pink satin with a pink picture hat. Mrs. Hayes, the bride's mother, wore a gray silk gown with a flower toque.

After the impressive and beautiful ceremonial at the church, there was a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride, 52 West Peachtree street.

The bridal party was seated at a table artistically decorated in white and green, the centerpiece of bride roses and maidenhair fern, and the intimate company of relatives and friends who were present were served from the buffet in an adjoining apartment. There the decorations of center table and buffet were pink and white carnations, and ferns, palms and flowers were used in tasteful arrangement throughout the house.

Mr. and Mrs. Galhouse went to New Orleans for the Mardi Gras festivities, and, returning in ten days, they will be at home with Mr. and Mrs. Hayes until the completion of their home on Hill street.

The out-of-town guests at the wedding included Miss Kavanagh, of Columbus; Misses Mary Hanley and Alice Hanley, of New York; Mary McGraw, of Griffin; Kate O'Connor, of Montgomery.

Call for Singers.

Dr. Percy J. Starnes, honorary conductor of the Atlanta Choral and Orchestral Society, makes the following announcement:

"Sopranos, altos, tenors and basses, with a knowledge of reading music, are invited to join the chorus for Handel's 'Messiah' in aid of local charities.

"First rehearsal at Taft hall, Monday, February 27, at 8:30 o'clock.

Forty-Two Party.

Misses Alice and Amalee Smith gave an enjoyable 42 party Tuesday evening at their home, 680 Washington street. Delicious refreshments were served after the game.

The guests were Misses Mozelle Neal, Eloise Haney, Mary Kempton, Kate Gresham; Messrs. Lloyd Smith, John Logan, Ormond Jernigan, M. D. Smith, Stephens Doll.

Mr. Mueller's Recital.

A noteworthy event in music on Tuesday evening will be the recital by Kurt Mueller, pianist, assisted by Michael Banner, violin; Dr. C. Edw. Buchanan, viola; Oscar Pappenheimer, violoncello, under the auspices of the Atlanta Conseryatory of Music, at Cable hall.

The program is as follows:

Johannes Brahms—Sonata for piano, Op. 5.

Johann Sebastian Bach—French Suite, E-major; new edition by Kurt Mueller.

Franz Liszt—From "Annges de Pelerinage," second year-Italy: (a) Sposalizio; (b) Sonetto 123 del Petrarca.

Karl Klindworth—Polonaise-Fantasie.

Musicale.

The ladies of the Holy Trinity Guild will give a musicale tomorrow at 3:30 p. m., at the residence of Mrs. W. B. Bennett. An excellent program will be rendered, and it is hoped that a large attendance will enjoy it. All are cordially invited to attend. Admission, 50 cents.

Those taking part will be: Miss Mable, Miss Crane, Miss Clay; Mr. Marshbank, Prof. Hubner, Mrs. Santa, Mrs. Blackman and Mrs. Green.

DAILY HINT ON FASHIONS

Lovely Hat Model Sent From Paris.

By Marie Montaigne.

This is one of the lovely models that Paris has sent us for spring. It is a pale brown straw, almost the color of old ivory, and it has a perfectly fascinating dip at the back and another that gives distinction to the front. One side of the brim is caught high upon the side of the hat, and the other is much more shallow and droops a trifle over the hair. Black panne velvet faces the brim, and great plumes of pale golden ostrich feathers that merge into creamy white on the edges float across one side of the hat and fall upon the brim at the back. You may purchase such a hat in one place for $50, and in another for $150, and you may make it for about $45. Plumes of less value could be had, and that would bring the hat down to $18 or $20. Cheaper materials would not have the same effect, and nothing looks quite as tawdry and unrefined as cheap ostrich plumes. Upon sight of them one's thought distinctively turns to the barnyard, and one wonders how many turkey and chicken feathers entered into their manufacture.

Lavender is very fashionable for the spring, and masses of lavender flowers would make a charming trimming for a hat of this shape. Say, for instance, that two or three clusters of wistaria or lilac were used to drift across the hat, how lovely one could make the color scheme by using one of the new lavender straws, faced with the new lavender silk and trimmed with two or three shades of mauve-colored flowers with bits of green foliage to heighten the effect.

If the hat is to be worn with a silk dress, it is the fashion to trim the hat with pieces of the silk. This fashion is particularly effective for costumes of a more or less simple design, since elaborate costumes call for elaborate hats, adorned either with flowers or plumes.

Domino Tea.

Mrs. E. C. Lester gave a domino tea yesterday at her home in West End, the occasion a delightful one in compliment to Mrs. Frank Cox.

Red carnations, narcissi and flags made effective decoration, and the score cards bore pictures of George Washington, framed in flags, and hatchets.

Twenty-eight guests played dominos, and forty others joined them at tea.

Mrs. Lester was gowned in black marquisette over black satin, with an embroidery of coral beads, and Mrs. Cox wore a white lace gown.

The Theater Parties Last Night.

The most brilliant audience of the season was assembled at the Grand last evening to see the Russian dancers in their performance—a marvel of thought, suggestion and grace. The boxes were filled, and after the performance there were many having supper at the Capital City Club.

Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Beck had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Robert Maddox and Mr. and Mrs. John E. Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Frank Inman, Mrs. Florence Wadley Coleman and Mr. Brooks Morgan.

Colonel and Mrs. Lowry entertained Lieutenant and Mrs. Allen, Miss Dooly and Mr. Thomas Egleston.

Mr. Hugh Dorsey entertained Miss Wilkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Ottley.

Hon. Hoke Smith and Mrs. Smith entertained a party of six.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry English entertained Miss Stockdell, Mr. Hugh Robinson and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Robinson.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marshall Slaton entertained a party of six.

The Baron and Baroness Rosenkrantz had as their guests Mr. and Mrs. Paine, Mr. and Mrs. Little, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Kiser, Mrs. C. H. Conklin, Miss Nicolson, Colonel Willis Ragan and Mr. H. B. Adams.

Mr. and Mrs. Julius DeGive entertained a party of six guests.

The Work of the Players' Club.

An energetic work, charactertistic of Atlanta women, is that of Mrs. Frank S. Ellis and Mrs. Albert Thornton, who have carried the business responsibility of "Trelawney of the Wells," the play to be put on by the Players' Club next Monday evening, February 27. It has been decided by the players to give the proceeds of the play to the three orphans' homes, the Hebrew Orphans' Home and that at Hapeville and at Decatur.

To meet the immediate expenses Mrs. Ellis and Mrs. Thornton on Monday undertook to get up an interesting program which would include ads. from public-spirited business men willing to help the cause of the orphans.

They met with a generous response in their efforts and the program will represent a neat sum of money.

Many of the boxes were taken yesterday and the sale of seats for the play was most encouraging.

The first dress rehearsal will take place tonight.

The part of Sir William Gower will be taken by Mr. Walter Stearnes, who was the inimitable Bob Acres when the Players' Club put on "The Rivals" last year, in what was an all-star local cast.

Mrs. Hammond's Lucheon.

Mrs. W. R. Hammond's luncheon yesterday was a delightful affair of the day, and a compliment to Miss Annie Shedden and Miss Marian Cooper, of New York, guests of Mrs. R. F. Shedden.

The luncheon party of twenty were seated at handsomely-appointed tables in the dining room, and all the decorative details suggested the day's anniversary. The centerpieces were colonial baskets of red and white roses.

Mrs. Hammond was gowned in black chiffon over white satin embroidered in black.

Benefit for St. Anthony's.

The song recital to be given by Albert Gerard-Thiers on Thursday night at Piedmont hotel convention hall, for the benefit of St. Anthony's church in West End, will consist of the following:

Plaisir d'Amour—Martini.
"It Was a Lover and His Lass"—Morley.
"Obstination"—Fontanailles.
"Could I?"—Tosti.
"Still We Die Nacht"—Bohm.
"At Parting"—Rogers.
"Beauty's Eyes"—Tosti.
"Annie Laurie"—Scott.
"Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes"—Mozart.
"The Rosary"—Nevin.

Miss Kate Blatterman at the piano.

Afternoon Bridge.

Mrs. John S. Arnold gave a pretty card party yesterday at her home in West End, twenty-eight ladies enjoying her hospitality.

The decorations were jonquils, and the score cards were the same flowers hand-painted. The prizes were a sandwich plate, a bowl and a pitcher hand-painted in cherries.

Evening Musical.

A COMPETENT JUDGE

Mrs. A. G. Strong, Director of the Cooking School given for the benefit of the Home for Incurables, wrote us a letter:

Jos. Rogers Co.,
Atlanta, Ga.
Gentlemen:

Having demonstrated your bread at the pure food show while giving cooking lessons, I can, without hesitancy say that I regard it as superior to any baker's bread I have used in Atlanta.

Its nutrition, its healthfulness, its fine flavor is sufficient to make it ideal bread for any family.

Bread made scientifically right and of the best material is not only a luxury, but one of the most economic articles of diet. MRS. A. G. STRONG.

That is really a letter that every housekeeper in Atlanta should "learn by heart." It tells the story and needs no comment from us.

Rogers Bread is wrapped in sanitary, germ-proof, dust-proof paper, before it leaves our bakery. Every package has our name on it. Rogers Bread is sold by the best grocers. Insist on it.

OLE BULL FORTUNE FIGURES IN COURT

Half-Million Dollars Was Left by Famous Violinist.

Boston, February 22.—A petition for the appointment of a special administrator of the estate of the late Sarah Chapman Bull, widow of Ole Bull, the famous violinist, has been filed by counsel for Mrs. Olea Bull Vaughan, daughter of Mrs. Bull.

Ole Bull's widow left property estimated as worth $500,000. Much of it was bequeathed to Mystics of India and other friends of Mrs. Bull, while the amount left to the daughter by the original will greatly reduced in a codicil.

The K K K Flour is sold by all grocers.

TWO ANCIENT BANKS MERGED IN NEW YORK

New York, February 22.—Two of the oldest banks in New York—the Phenix National and the Chatham National—have completed a merger, and tomorrow will begin a new and joint career as the Phenix and Chatham National bank.

The Phenix, which has a career of 99 years, was the first bank with which the late Junius Spencer Morgan allied himself, and his son, J. Pierpont Morgan, was a charter member of its directory when it became a national bank. The Chatham has done business for 61 years. The capital and surplus of the Phenix and Chatham National bank is $3,000,000, and its resources are more than $20,000,000.

Honduran Peace Conference.

Puerto Cortez, Honduras, February 22.—The second day's session of the peace conference aboard the Tacoma opened without the slightest indication of an early agreement being reached by the envoys of President Davila and General Manuel Bonilla. Both sides are sparring for an opening, and neither Rozales nor Membrano is showing signs of willingness to recede from their respective demands made at yesterday's initial session.

Ad Men of Seven States.

Oklahoma City, Okla., February 22.—Advertising men from seven states attended the fifth annual convention of the southwestern division of the Associated Advertising Clubs of America, which met here today. The states represented were Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana.

PENNY POSTAGE ASKED FOR ALL LOCAL LETTERS

In a Bill Introduced in House by Congressman Griest.

Washington, February 22.—Penny postage for all local or city delivery letters is proposed in a bill introduced today by Representative Griest, of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Griest figured out that the official statistics show the government now has a profit exceeding 1½ cents on each local delivery letter, that with 1-cent postage it would continue to have about three-fourths of a cent profit, and that every reduction of letter postage has resulted in increased volume of mail and enlarged postal revenues.

GRAND RECORDS SMASHED BY THE RUSSIAN DANCERS

Success, both from a financial and artistic standpoint, crowned the first day's performances of the Russian dancers, bringing to the Grand two of the best paying audiences of the season to witness the most wonderful exhibition of terpsichore and ocular opera ever offered in this city.

In the afternoon the audience was transported from modern Atlanta to the ancient east and all its old customs in the story of love and passion, "The Arabian Nights," and at night the old France by a fanciful narrative in which love and disguised nobles and fairies make the plot of "Giselle."

Perfect as is the work of every member of the cast, the operas are after all but incidents of the day and the other players' accessories, so many surroundings, so much scenery, to give Anna Pavlowa and Mikail Mordkin an opportunity to fight out a great duel for artistic supremacy.

From the lift of the curtain on "The Arabian Nights" to the drop after a most wonderful finish, the Bacchanale, consciously or unconsciously, the minds of every man and woman in the audience are busy with the question, "Which is greater, Mordkin or Pavlowa?"

One moment you give the preference to the man, the next to the woman. Watching them carefully it would seem that the man conceives the idea of the dance and the woman executes it. The woman is motion, the man is grace. We expect every woman to be graceful, but it is a gift we do not look for in the man. Half the time when we find a decent dancer on the stage he is an effeminate looking person. With Mordkin the opposite is true. He is the embodiment of grace, the personification of manliness. "A Greek god come to life" he has been called, he is truly "the conception of manliness painted by some great master of physical and mental perfection, stepped out of a frame onto the stage of a theater."

In repose his face is somewhat heavy. Lighted for a moment by a smile, the answer to joy, to excitement or to passion, there comes a transformation difficult to realize and the man of silence and of repose of a moment ago, is as handsome as any matinee idol who has ever made the heart of woman flutter.

Pavlowa glides onto the stage, to sweep us from comparison and reason for awhile in enjoyment of the aesthetic delights she offers in the wild abandon of her dance, or in the delicate touches of some fanciful creation, and the image of Mordkin fades from the mind, and we are filled with the belief that never has there been such a dancer before, never will there be again. Russian by birth, and cosmopolitan by experience and by training, her dancing is her own. It belongs to grace, it is the fullness of movement, it is the expression of thought in terpsichore, the speaking of words in gliding feet.

Attractive, magnetic, we could all call her even in repose, but pretty—no, not until she begins to dance. Then there are no words strong enough to express the emotion she creates. There is but one word—perfection—to describe the work of her feet, her hands, her face.

Many people believe that her dance is purely Russian. They have seen or read of the Russian dance, the kind that is performed in vaudeville, or in popular-priced houses. But Pavlowa is no dancer of this type. As great as Genee in toe dancing, superior of any woman in the world in suppleness, in grace, and in variety, she is an actress as well as a dancer. As a usual thing a dancer merely paces off so many steps, creates a pleased feeling, brings together so many hands in applause, and that is the end of the story.

With Pavlowa and Mordkin the idea is to make a dance tell a story—to convey to the mind the meaning of the steps they take by every little bend of the body, every change of expression, every twitch of the muscles.

The features of the afternoon program were the opening number, "The Arabian Nights," a pantomimic production—call it ocular opera if you will—and the close, the finale of the show, "The Bacchanale."

In "The Arabian Nights," Azyiade, a queen in her own country, has been captured by followers of Shah Rahman, a tribal chieftain. Brought before his throne, he commands her to dance. Upon her refusal he threatens her life, and then, under duress, she dances. Finally, the fire of the dance enters her veins and, when at its height, she passes the throne again, she holds out her hands in passionate entreaty, "Kill me, but don't make me dance with hands bound." Moved by her appeal, and inflamed by wine and by passion, he cuts the bonds, and wilder and wilder grows the dance. Finally, when she sees he is growing inflamed with desire, she starts a mild flirtation with two of his captains. With a single leap he is on those to whom she has tossed her flowers, and strikes them to the ground. "Order them all out but you and I," she asks him, and her wish is obeyed in a second. Then she plies him with wine, and he, wine-mad, pursues her, embraces her, holds her in a mighty grip, but soon the drink has its inning, and he falls back upon the couch exhausted, in the sleep that comes to all who abuse their physical powers.

And in the black night, with the court stupefied with drink, and sunk in sleep, she and her maid slip away to their own country.

At first Mordkin, as the tribal chieftain, impresses more by strength and by physique than by grace, but before the finish of this curtain raiser, he gains the unstinted applause of his audience by his skill in dancing.

At the close of the curtain raiser, a number of dances are given. "The Swan," by Miss Pavlowa, was greeted with great applause, and "The Fire Dance" in which Mordkin and Pavlowa figured, was a beautiful bit of work.

The final dance, "The Bacchanale Dance," was the most finished and artistic piece of work ever seen in Atlanta. Flitting on the stage looking as if they were flying rather than dancing, seeming as if their feet were not touching the floor, they give the impression of a dream more than a reality.

At the Grand again tonight, "The Arabian Nights."

Lillian Russell.
(At the Orpheum.)

All me nare sinners in embryo, or, at least, such was the experience of Miss Lillian Russell, at the Orpheum last night, in the play, "In Search of a Sinner."

About the best thing we can do when we find a man who is, by temperament, honest and of a moral nature, is to leave him alone, and not expose him to temptation.

A clever little woman, with a certain amount of magnetism, and with looks and determination to back her, can make a fool out of most any man, if she wants to.

Such was the idea of the character Miss Russell portrayed, that of a widow who, after suffering with ennui for ten years, due to existence as the wife of a really and truly good man, believed that she would rather like another kind of mate—a man with a spice of the devil in him—who would not stay tied to her apron strings, and would make her work to keep him.

Her best-laid plans go astray when, in an unconventional way, she meets a model of morals. She convinces him she is the wife of his best friend; acts the tempter in ss cunning a way as the snake did to the Eve of Paradise days, and finally, by guile and persuasion, makes him fall in love with her, and ask her to elope. Then she discloses her identity; tells him she is satisfied with a good man, and intends to keep him muzzled when a pretty woman is around, as soon as she gains that right through resort to matrimony.

The plot is about as weak and as inconsistent as that of a musical comedy. In one scene, for instance, Lillian takes off one dress, puts on another, receives her lover in the room before the discarded dress is put out of sight, and then takes lunch with him. Generally there are separate rooms for dining and for dressing.

The play is enjoyable, however, mainly through the clever work of the members of the cast, and the popularity Miss Russell has always enjoyed the country over. She can make almost any kind of a play passable, at least. The audiences, afternoon and evening, were very satisfactory, from a managerial standpoint.

The moral of the play is plain—if you have a good husband, let him be. There are too many of the other kind to be had for the asking.

Keith Vaudeville.
(At the Forsyth.)

Two great gatherings assembled at the busy Forsyth Wednesday and there will be greater audiences at the daily performances the rest of the week, simply because Atlanta likes good vaudeville and the Forsyth has not offered any better vaudeville than the bill of this week. Dr. Carl Herman, the electric wizard, who heads the bill, offers a real pleasing surprise comedy act.

The American Newspaper Annual and Directory.

1418 pages Royal octavo, cloth, $5 net, carriage extra, postage 60 cents, published by N. W. Ayer & Son, Advertising Agents, Philadelphia.

For the thirty-first time a comprehensive review of the newspaper and magazine field is presented by this publication. To the publishers of this country and to those having dealings with them this work is most useful. The facts and figures pertaining to each publication are presented in a condensed and get-at-able form.

The Annual and Directory is now the only publication of its kind which is compiled from information gathered each year from original sources. Mr. George P. Rowell was the first to compile such a work, and for forty years he issued the American Newspaper Directory in the interest of publishers and advertisers. Following his death, the Directory, with its records, copyrights and property, was sold to N. W. Ayer & Son, who combined it with their own work.

As heretofore, special attention has been given to the important matter of circulation figures. Where satisfactory signed or sworn statements have been made these figures are presented; otherwise, the editor of the Annual has estimated the circulation from the facts at his command.

Supplementary to the general catalogue are lists of daily papers, magazines, women's publications, mail-order publications, agricultural and religious papers, together with groupings of publications pertaining to various classes and trades. As an illustration of the up-to-date character of this section we notice a list of publications devoted to aeronautics, also one showing those which deal with the manufacture and exhibition of moving pictures.

The Annual and Directory likewise presents a vast amount of up-to-date gazetteer information showing the transportation, banking and other facilities of every town in which a newspaper is published, together with references to its leading industries and characteristics. This feature is supplemented by a specially-prepared map of each state, showing every newspaper town. Convenience and conciseness have been carefully studied throughout, and the book places at the disposal of publishers, of advertisers, of business men, of students, librarians, etc., a vast amount of fresh information not elsewhere to be procured.

The wonderful act of Charlotte Parry, the protean actress, has attracted more interest than any number on the bill. Miss Parry plays "The Comstock Mystery," portraying seven of the nine characters. She is a wonderful woman, a gifted and versatile actress and one of the greatest vaudeville stars the Forsyth has offered. For next week Lillian Shaw, the most popular comedienne ever introduced here, will be the star feature.

"Mam'zelle."
(At the Lyric.)

The Schiller Amusement Company begs to announce that the very newest big sensational comedy scream, with unheard-of climaxes and brilliant effects, will be presented at the Lyric for an engagement of one week, when "Mam'zelle" will make her initial bow to the theatergoers of Atlanta and that "Mam'zelle" is the sensational comedy hit of the year par excellence, will no doubt be attested by the usual packed house, for it is a hard matter to deceive the theatergoer of today, and the success of such the stupendous sensation has surely preceded it, and keep an audience that bewilder, mystify, and keep an audience in such a state of roaring hilarity that when the curtain finally drops on the last complication there is nothing left to be desired.

Hanlon's Superba.
(At the Lyric.)

Hanlon's Superba, at the Lyric, is one of the best attractions of the season at the pretty little house. There is so much in this extravaganza that all of its features could not be detailed in anything less than a volume of space. It possesses all the elements of a musical comedy, together with the elaborate scenic and electrical effects, and the brilliant costuming of extravaganza. Through it all runs a pretty love story. The performance from the opening chorus on the shores of the sunlit sea, to the final tableaux is productive of continuous applause. Hanlon's Superba must be seen to be appreciated, and the matinees today and Saturday will afford an opportunity to all the little folks to see this wonderful fairyland of fun and frolic.

Getting a Polish.
(At the Grand.)

The sale of seats for May Irwin's forthcoming engagement at the Grand begins next Wednesday. It is announced that a number of very catchy songs for Miss Irwin to sing have been introduced into her new play, "Getting a Polish," which is by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, authors of "The Man From Home." Chief among these interpolated songs is "My Wife Bridget," by Irving Berlin, which has already found its way into the repertoires of the hotel and restaurant orchestras. Miss Irwin is billed for Friday and Saturday.

ADVERTISING TALKS.

pany discovered, after a little while, that ADVERTISING WAS REALLY OF BENEFIT to them.

The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. has, I think, twenty-six or twenty-seven subsidiary companies.

The main company does GENERAL PUBLICITY and the subsidiary companies LOCAL PUBLICITY and BOTH HAVE AIDED in increasing the business enormously.

I don't know how much they spend in general advertising, but possibly two hundred thousand dollars a year, and the subsidiary companies spend possibly six times that.

HERE IS ANOTHER ILLUSTRATION OF A CORPORATION that some years ago was not overly well liked by the public, THAT HAS WON A CONSPICUOUS PLACE in public esteem BY ADVERTISING its policies frankly and openly.

It is possible for every corporation or merchant or manufacturer to make what we shall call a "laboratory test" through the AID OF ADVERTISING.

There is nothing uncertain about a SANE advertising campaign; there is never any doubt about success—if the whole story is told—if nothing is concealed from the public.

URSULA EMMA MEDIUM OF COUP

Jacksonville, Fla., February 22.—A large holiday crowd attended the races at Moncrief today and witnessed one of the best afternoon's sport of the meeting.

Donald MacDonald proved that he is the best handicap horse in training here when he shouldered 125 pounds and won the Washington handicap, worth $1,500, from a good field of horses. Incidentally the big horse shaved one-fifth of a second off the track record, running the mile and an eighth in 1:53 2-5.

Bob R., the favorite, was second a length in front of Aylmer.

Ursula Emma was the medium of a successful coup in the first race for 2-year-olds. It was her initial start and her price opened at 20 to 1, but 4½ to 1 was the best obtainable at post time.

Favorites and well-played second choices divided the card. Summaries:

FIRST RACE—Purse $400, 2-year-olds, 4 furlongs: Ursula Emma, 107 (Butwell), 9 to 2, 7 to 1, even, won; New Haven, 113 (Byrne), 8 to 5, 9 to 10, 1 to 5, second; Margerum, 108 (Burns), 6 to 1, 8 to 5, 7 to 10, third. Time, :49. Mack B. Eubanks, Samuel R. Meyer, Tom King, Traymore, Duval, Walter Scott, Court Jester also ran.

SECOND RACE—Purse $400, 3-year-olds and up, 6 furlongs: Old Boy (Walsh), 7 to 1, 3 to 1, 8 to 5, won; Oakley, 102 (Musgrave), 9 to 2, 8 to 5, 4 to 5, second; Molly Ho, 102 (McCahey), 18 to 10, 2 to 1, even, third. Time, 1:14 3-5. I'm There, Coletta, O. L. Doyle, Spin, Archduke, Sam Matthews, Allandale Queen, Cavotte, Altadena, Frank Navin also ran.

THIRD RACE—Purse $500 4-year-olds and upwards, 6 furlongs: Ozana, 107 (Butwell), 5 to 2, even, 1 to 2, won; Alfred the Great, 109 (Fain), 4 to 1, 3 to 5, 4 to 5, second; Lady Irma, 107 (Koerner), 6 to 1, 2 to 1, even, third. Time 1:13 1-5. Workbox, General McGregor, Aspirin, Kingship, Ta Nun Da, Star Blue, ran.

FOURTH RACE—Washington handicap, birthday, $1,500, 3-year-olds and up; mile and an eighth: Donald McDonald, 125 (Butwell), 13 to 5, 9 to 10, 2 to 5, won; Bob R., 111 (Koerner), 9 to 5, 7 to 10, 1 to 5, second; Aylmer, 116 (Wilson), 6 to 1, 2 to 1, 7 to 10, third. Time 1:53 2-5. Effendi, Wing Ting, Console, ran.

DOUBLE HEADER AT ATHLETIC CLUB

The final basketball game of the season at the Atlanta Athletic Club will be made auspicious by the playing of a double-header, and both games should be corkers.

The main attraction will be the game between Sewanee and the Atlanta Athletic Club, and lovers of basketball have certainly got a wonderful treat in store for them.

Sewanee is blessed with an excellent team this year, and they are sure to give the club men a stiff run for their money.

The club men are now overjoyed by the report from Forward Hudson's physician that his knee will mend sufficiently for him to get back into the game. Hudson has been the star of the club team this season, and his presence in the line-up is sure to strengthen it.

The city basketball title will be settled in the other game scheduled for the evening.

Marist College, winner of the Prep School title, and Wesley Memorial, winner of the City League title, will lock horns to settle the city's supremacy.

As these two teams have a large following, and Sewanee is very popular, locally, together with it being the last game of the season, the capacity of the club gymnasium is going to be more than taxed.

The usual prices for admission, with the usual dancing features after the game, will prevail.

AT TAMPA.

Tampa, Fla., February 22.—Cold weather and the fact that the aviators, Messrs. McCurdy and Beachey, who had been giving exhibitions at the West Tampa track, were flying from another portion of the city, kept the attendance down to a small gathering of regulars this afternoon.

A featureless card, consisting of six straight selling races, was run off without incident except that favorites were defeated with a monotonous frequency. It was a bad day for the form players, while the layers reaped a harvest.

The fifth race carried probably the most interest and was won by Sweet Owen in a drive from Sanctim. The winner was the second choice. Miss Vigilant got up in the closing sixteenth to win the fourth, in which Carew was a pronounced favorite, third place being the best the latter could do. Summaries:

FIRST RACE—For 4-year-olds and up, $125, 6 furlongs, selling: My Love, 106 (F. Jackson), 6 to 1, 2 to 1, even, won; Abe Gooding, 105 (Bergen), 2½ to 1, even, 1 to 2, second; Octopus, 109 (Pickett), 10 to 1, 4 to 1, 2 to 1, third. Time, 1:19 3-5. NEW YORK CITY AS A RESORT

It Affords Every Form of Entertainment and Amusement and the Hotel St. Regis for Rest.

Strangers come to New York as they do to Paris—"To see and be seen." When they return home the quest on is not "What did you see?" but "Where did you stay?" Will you not have a feeling of satisfaction when, upon your return home you are able to reply, "I stopped at the St. Regis!" There is no reason why you should not stop at the St. Regis, and many why you should. New York cannot be seen in a day or a week, even a month is too short a time, though the sightseer keep on the move from dawn to mid-night, day in and day out. In the midst of such strenuous touring there must be periods of rest, and this rest must be as refreshing as that of one's own home, or there is a breakdown. Here comes in the delightful service rendered by the Hotel St. Regis, at Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, a hotel of a quiet refinement peculiar to itself alone, and of a restful, "home-likeness" found in no other public house. To these is added a care and service perfect, thoughtful, even anticipatory, but never obsequious or perfunctory. The St. Regis restaurant has no superior in all the world in quality of food, skill in preparation and perfection of service; while the charges are no higher than those of other first-class hotels. Transient guests coming to New York and stopping at the Hotel St. Regis will find accommodations of the very highest grade in every particular and at standard rates. Single rooms are $3 and $4 a day; the same with private bath for $5 a day (or $6 for two people); while for a parlor, bedroom and private bath the rates are $12 a day and up.

TWENTIETH CENTURY BASEBALL DISCUSSED BY BAN JOHNSON

In The Constitution on Sunday Ban B. Johnson, president of the American League and a member of the National Baseball Commission, will write the first of a series of articles which will appear each Sunday for three months.

He will take for his subject "Twentieth Century Baseball, Its Rise, Development and Future Prospects."

No one is better fitted to write on this subject than he. The other articles on other sports will be written by well-known experts in their line.

MADOLE IS DEFEATED BY PACKEY McFARLAND

Philadelphia, February 22.—Packey McFarland, of Chicago, had all the better of a six-round bout with Frankie Madole, of Pittsburg, at the American Athletic Club here tonight. The Pittsburger was game and took lots of punishment. He landed many good blows, but McFarland, at all times, seemed his master. At the finish Madole appeared very tired, and his opponent did not show a mark. The bout was fought at catch-weights.

KNOCKOUT BROWN BESTED BY HOGAN

New York, February 22.—"One-Round" Hogan, of California, gained the popular decision over "Knockout" Brown, of New York, in a ten-round bout at the Madison Athletic Club here tonight.

Brown failed to make the showing he recently made against Ad Wolgast in Philadelphia. Brown was easily the favorite, but the first round served to raise Hogan several points in the estimation of the crowd.

The Californian outpointed, outboxed and outfought the hardy New York lightweight, and the big house generally voted the laurels to Hogan when the last gong had sounded.

Three rounds belonged to Brown, the second, fourth and ninth. The third and sixth were even breaks, and to Hogan went the rest.

Permits to smoke, to be issued next week, will bring about a lot of satisfaction in Atlanta.

HALL TEAM WINS AGAINST TIMMONS BUNCH

In the annual five-men ten-pin tournament at the Athletic Club, Timmons' team went down in defeat in two of the three games last night between that team and the bunch captained by Hall, though the first was too close to be comfortable even for the winning team. This game resulted in favor of Timmons' team by a margin of one point, while the next was captured by Hall's men wit hthree points to spare. The last was won by Hall's team with a majority of 53 points.

Speer, a member of the Hall team, had the highest individual score with 207, this being the highest individual score yet made during the tournament. Captain Timmons made the highest individual average with 173, and also the highest individual score for his team with 190.

The following are the scores, the three highest only, counting in the totals:

NAME.	1st.	2nd.	3rd.

WOMAN STRUCK BY AUTO TAKEN HOME BY DRIVER

Quickly bringing his automobile to a stop after it had struck down Mrs. W. C. Sanders, of 83 Garden street, early last night on Whitehall street, near Alabama street crossing, Dr. A. Dorsey, of 357 Peters street, placed her in his machine and hurried her to her home, where he gave her every attention. It was found that Mrs. Sanders was only slightly shocked. Her injuries are not serious.

DR. J.N. M'CORMACK TO TALK TONIGHT

The people of Atlanta will have an opportunity, such as come few times in a person's life, tonight when Dr. J. N. McCormack, of Bowling Green, Ky., one of the most famoust lecturers in the United States on medical matters, speaks in the ball room of the New Kimball hotel at 8 o'clock. Dr. McCormack will talk upon matters that affect every person in Atlanta today, and his speech will prove of vast benefit to those who hear him.

Last night he appeared before a gathering of the Fulton County Medical Society and in a masterly speech demonstrated clearly the great opportunity for the medical man who devotes his time to painstaking and careful analysis of the cases undertaken by him.

"Fifty per cent of the practicing physicians today," said Dr. McCormack, "should be forced to give up practice for utter incompetence. I am an advocate for a rule forcing all physicians after five years' practice to take an examination to show whether or not they are qualified for the duties they are supposed to fulfill. This rule would crowd out the incompetent class entirely and would result in the people getting better service."

A large number of physicians were present at the meeting and all agreed that Dr. McCormack had made one of the strongest talks ever heard by the society. Though he is a national figure, having been urged to run for governor of his state of Kentucky, this is his first appearance in Atlanta, and he is being royally welcomed.

MERCER CAR WINS CALIFORNIA RACE

San Leandro, Cal., February 22.—The Mercer, Bigelow driving, won the light car race of the Oakland-Panama-Pacific automobile meet here today, covering the 98 miles in 1 hour 42 minutes 54 seconds. The Maxwell was second and the E-M-F third.

Tailoring-- a System--

Anybody ever tell you it can't be done? That you had to be there, right on the spot or you won't get a fit? And did you believe him? Some folks did. We see 'em every day and before we turn them loose we generally convince them that with our system they are assured as perfect fitting garments as ever adorned the back of man.

YIDDISH OPERA COMPANY PLAYS HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

The announcement of much interest to the Yiddish people of Atlanta is that of the engagement of Leo Largman's Yiddish Opera Company for one engagement, to be given for the first time, on the night of February 24, at Taft hall.

Leo Largman has been in the Yiddish show business for the past eighteen years. The people in all the cities in the west say that Mr. Largman is the manager who knows what the Yiddish people like. He is the only manager who brings the big stars for the Jewish people to the city, like Madame Lipson, David Kessler, Doris Momashefsky and Jacob P. Adler. He brings with him only artists, good singers with talent; in fact, the people best in the business are found in his company.

Leo Largman came to this country twenty-two years ago. At this time there were no Jewish theaters existing here. Mr. Largman is one of the Yiddish actors and managers to open up Jewish theaters here in New York and in Philadelphia, and at Baltimore he was the owner of the Yiddish theater for seven or eight years.

R. Shapiro, who is the advance agent, states that Leo Largman brings "Doc Pintele Jud," a Jewish opera, which was run 300 nights in New York, Boston and Philadelphia, and which comes here from sixteen successful weeks in Chicago, where it is the talk of the town. He brings the well-known comedienne—the sweetest, smartest comedienne—Miss Paula Winterds. She is the success of the "Pintele Jud."

VOTES OF THE WOMEN WORK REVELATIONS IN SEATTLE

Seattle, Wash., February 22.—For the second time in a month the votes of women have worked a revolution in Seattle. In yesterday's primary election to choose eighteen candidates for councilmen to be voted for on March 7, the women voters followed up their vote of February 7, which ousted Mayor Hiram C. Gill and his appointive officers by defeating all but three candidates who were accused of being on intimate terms with the late Gill administration. These three were nominated yesterday by so narrow a margin that it is almost certain they will not be among the nine selected as councilmen in March. Most of the nominees are wealthy men, and some have devoted much time to the study of civic government.

The proportion of women voting yesterday, compared with the total registration, was larger than of men.

NEW JAP TREATY IN THE BREAKERS

It Is Held Up by Senator Hale of Maine.

Hale Doesn't Object to Absence of Immigration Restrictions, but Says There's Objectionable Trade Reciprocity in Treaty.

NEW TREATY WITH JAPAN IS OPPOSED BY CALIFORNIA

Sacramento, Cal., February 22. The senate, at a special meeting tonight, adopted a resolution by Senator Caminetti, urging congress to refuse to assent to the proposed Japanese treaty. The resolution was ordered telegraphed to President Taft. There was no discussion and the vote was uanimous.

Washington, February 22.—An effort was made to crowd through the senate today the new treaty with Japan on the subject of commerce and navigation, but it met with stubborn resistance from a wholly unexpected quarter. Senator Hale declared that the treaty represented a voluntary surrender by the administration of a commercial advantage which this country by rights would enjoy for another year over the nations of Europe with whom Japan is negotiating new commercial relations.

Senator Lodge, who reported the treaty from the senate committee on foreign relations, which agreed to report it after its provisions had been explained by Secretary Knox, was unable to satisfy the objectors.

Western senators offered no arguments against ratification beyond demanding time in which to obtain an understanding of its provisions. Although the reason for such haste to have the treaty ratified was not stated, the general belief was that the administration desired action before western states had time to memorialize their representatives to oppose it should the elimination of the immigration clause be deemed obnoxious to the interests of the Pacific slope.

No fault was expressed by the Maine senator with the immigration feature, but he charged that it involved reciprocity with Japan as objectionable to orthodox protectionists as that contemplated in the reciprocity agreement with Canada.

Some sharp passages are said to have occurred between Messrs. Lodge and Hale, but the debates in executive session are never taken down.

Mr. Lodge is said to have charged Mr. Hale with advaneing a "fancied joker" rather than a "nigger in the woodpile," as he called it formerly, for the purpose of beclouding the situation. Mr. Hale replied rather tartly, requesting Mr. Lodge to advance some good reason for this government giving up advantageous tariff relations a year before they shoul end. After a long debate it was realized that ratification today was impossible, and the senate adjourned.

THREE LIVES LOST; TOWN FIRESWEPT

Donaldsonville, La., February 22.—A loss estimated at $500,000 was sustained today when flames originating in the kitchen of the Nicholls hotel, spread rapidly and almost totally destroyed the business district of the city. Three lives are reported lost.

It is understood that the fire was started by an explosion of a gasoline stove. With almost incredible rapidity the flames leaped across the street and, fed by highly inflammable material, developed into a conflagration beyond the control of the local fire fighters. Hurry calls and special trains were sent to neighboring cities for apparatus. The flames started shortly after 9 o'clock this morning, but it was 5 o'clock in the afternoon before they were under control.

The convent of the Sisters of Charity was almost totally destroyed, all the inmates, however, escaped.

The following places were among those totally destroyed: Nicholls hotel and stables, Bank of Ascension, Trepagnier's jewelry store, Dr. S. Vegar's store and residence, Netter's dry goods store, Naurin's grocery, Lancaster's barber shop and residence.

This list is incomplete. Donaldsonville has about 15,000 inhabitants.

LIVELY MEETING HELD BY FEDERATED TRADES

School "Frills," and Council's Attitude Toward Union Topics Discussed.

"Frills" in the public schools, "ascertaining the attitude of candidates for the general council toward organized labor" and the proposed increase in postage on magazines were features of the Atlanta Federation of Trades last night President Kirkpatrick presiding.

The "frills" and the attitude of candidates came together when Delegate Marks, ex-president of the federation, presented a resolution directing the legislative committee of the federation to ascertain from every candidate his feelings toward organized labor, "It is for the purpose of giving us information by which we, individually, not as a body, can act," said Mr. Marks.

A warm discussion followed.

Jerome Jones opposed the resolution, saying that the committee could not give a candidate approached a guarantee that the labor vote would go any particular way.

Henry Garrett favored the resolution, saying that it meant only an inquiry and not a promise of support.

The discussion was general, but ended in sending the resolution back to the various unions for instructions from those unions as to how to vote in the federation.

Ex-President Marks presented the proposed increase on magazine postage, and when he asked that the federation condemn such increase, he found a solid support.

A vote of thanks was extended Mrs. J. K. Ottley, of the Women's Federation, for her work in behalf of the public schools.

3,000 BOY SCOUTS HEAR ROOSEVELT

Old Time Welcome for Colonel in Chicago.

Roosevelt Says Main Trouble With Country Is Failure of Individual to Do His Duty to Himself or to His Fellow Man.

Chicago, February 22.—Theodore Roosevelt, coming, as he said, to "endeavor to translate to present-day needs the work and will of Washington and Lincoln," met with a reception here today such as was his when he was president.

The former president gave again his definition of the new nationalism, pleaded for execution of duty in preference to demand of "rights" and worked himself into his former earnestness only when addressing 3,000 boy scouts in the Board of Trade building.

Greek Speech for Roosevelt.

While speaking at Hull House, a tall Greek, in the uniform of an instructor of the scouts, by permission, addressed in his own tongue a passionate appeal to the former president to keep working for better citizenship, which was warmly cheered by the speaker's fellows. A medal, which had been granted the speaker for some feat of the past, was pressed into Colonel Roosevelt's hands as the Greek withdrew.

The keynote of Colonel Roosevelt's day's talk was that no amount of laws would be of avail if the individual citizen forgot his duty. The speaker declared that, after all, the trouble with this country was not "big business," wicked corporations, corrupt public officers, etc., but the failure through carelessness, inappreciation or lack of understanding, to exercise his individual duty to himself and his fellow man.

Good and Bad Men in Corporations.

He reiterated his previous statements that there were good and bad men in corporations and that the wicked should be hunted down, individually, and he insisted that Uncle Sam should create rules of business that would take from organized monopoly the great advantage it had over the ordinary citizen. He then explained that "Uncle Sam" was none other than the individual voter.

He denounced as a traitor a man who would sell his vote or would buy that of another, declaring him of blacker stripe than Benedict Arnold. He also likened to the revolutionary traitor the man who blackmailed a people or a corporation or an individual, when the people had given him a whip hand to hold over others.

Colonel Roosevelt will leave for New York tomorrow.

HUNDREDS VISIT WASHINGTON'S TOMB

Mount Vernon, Va., February 22.—Upon the plain marble sarcophagus containing the body of George Washington, in the hillside tomb on the estate where the greatest American spent the final years of his life, two beautiful memorial wreaths were placed today by patriotic admirers to commemorate the one hundred and seventy-ninth anniversary of his birth.

Nine hundred patriotic Americans during the day visited and stood in silent reverence before the tomb. Among these were several hundred prominent Masons from all parts of the country.

MRS. ELLIS AWARDED VERDICT OF $2,500

Albany, Ga., February 22.—(Special.) In the city court of Albany today, Mrs. C. B. Ellis was awarded $2,500 by a jury which heard the evidence in her damage suit against the Central of Georgia railway.

Mrs. Ellis was thrown to the ground by the sudden jerking of a passenger train at Ducker station, in this county, as she was preparing to alight.

The evidence showed that the conductor nor any other member of the crew assisted her, and that as the result of her fall she sustained permanent injuries.

Dawson Declines Taft's Offer.

Washington, February 22.—Representative Alfred F. Dawson, of Davenport, Iowa, to whom was offered the post of secretary to the president, told President Taft today that he did not care to be considered in connection with that office. Mr. Dawson is to become president of the First National Bank of Davenport with a salary considerably larger than he gets in congress, and he told the president that he preferred to return to Iowa.

FOR SALE.

ON TENTH ST., 200 feet east of Piedmont avenue, and at the head of Myrtle street, we have 300 feet by 150 feet deep. This makes 6 full 50-foot lots at $50 per foot. On account of the elevation of these lots we recommend their purchase to someone owning lots in that neighborhood that need to be filled. By getting these lots down and filling those up you now have, you will be improving both pieces of property. See Mr. Hook.

ON MIRANDA AVE., near Highland and Cleburne avenues, and convenient to the Highland avenue cars, a very attractive bungalow of 6 rooms and hall; has all the conveniences. This is a growing section, and values are steadily increasing. This place can be bought for $4,000; $500 cash and $25 or $30 per month, and is worth the money. See Mr. Radford.

GO LOOK at a 6-room cottage on East Georgia avenue, near Hill street, No. 845. On an elevated lot, 50x150 feet. Recently repainted and put in thorough repair. We will sell this property for $3,000 on any reasonable terms; no loan. See Mr. Gilmer.

ON BEECHER ST., between Lee and Ashby streets, a very attractive 5-room cottage, with all conveniences and on nice lot, 50x173 feet. Convenient to two car lines. Immediate possession. Price $2,750; $1,250 cash and $25 per month; no loan. See Mr. White.

CONFERENCE TODAY ON MILEAGE RUL

Meeting of Traveling Men Will Be Held in Equitable Building.

Today is the day for the conference on the mileage rule.

And traveling men all over Georgia and, in fact, all that large percentage of the traveling public which makes use of the mileage book, are eagerly awaiting the outcome of the conference.

The meeting will be held at 11 o'clock this morning in the office of Chairman Joseph Richardson, of the Southeastern Passenger Association in the Equitable building. There will be present the special committee appointed to represent the organizations of traveling men, and the business men of the state, together with the passenger traffic officials of the railroads on which the mileage books are used.

The traveling men will ask that the railroads either abolish the rule which requires that holders of mileage shall exchange it for a ticket at ticket offices instead of having it accepted as fare by conductors on trains, or that the rule be so amended as to lessen the trouble and inconvenience which now arises from the necessity of having to exchange the mileage for tickets.

E. C. DREW INDICTED BY FEDERAL GRAND JURY

Alleged Drew Mailed Circulars Setting Forth Some Land Scheme.

Birmingham, Ala., February 22.—The federal grand jury at Gadsden last evening returned six indictments against E. C. Drew, of Fort Payne, trustee of the Fort Payne Fuel and Iron Company, Limited, on four charges of using the mails for fraudulent purposes and two for conducting a lottery scheme through the mails. The defendant is under a $10,000 bond. It is charged that he mailed circulars and letters to people throughout the United States setting forth a scheme to sell lands in and around Fort Payne.

This is one of the cases that J. R. Sharp, chief postoffice inspector, and Postmaster General Hitchcock have been working on to prevent fraudulent schemes throughout the country. Postoffice Inspectors Reed and Pendleton have been employed on the case for several months, and men who received the circulars and subscribed to stock have been found through the north, east and west, as well as in the south of the United States.

L. B. TUTEN CHARGED WITH LANGFORD'S DEATH

Sensation Created by Action of Carolina Grand Jury.

Hampton, S. C., February 22.—Somewhat of a sensation developed when the grand jury returned a true bill charging L. B. Tuten with the murder of J. R. Langford.

Langford was killed near Brunson, this county, November 29.

Both men are of considerable prominence in the community where they lived, Langford having been an extensive farmer and lumberman, and Tuten is a farmer of some means and a turpentine operator on a large scale.

GOVERNOR ATTACKS POLICE COMMISSION

Alleged That Vice Is Allowed to Run Rampant in Baltimore.

Baltimore, February 22.—Re-drawn and amended charges of incompetency and official misconduct were preferred today by Governor Crothers against the Baltimore board of commissioners of police.

The commissioners and Police Marshal Farnum, among bther things, are charged with failing to detect or prevent violations of the laws relating to gambling, liquor selling, disorderly houses and bookmaking. Deputy Marshal James Manning is accused of "tipping off" law-breakers about to be raided.

The hearing of the charges is fixed for March 6, before the governor at Annapolis.

OBERLIN CARTER'S SECRETARY FREE

"Finis" Written to Greene and Gaynor Case.

Case Against M. A. Connolly Nol Prossed---Shown That He in No Way Profited by the Conspiracy--Connolly Is Brother of Well-Known Writer.

Savannah, Ga., February 22.—In the United States district court today "finis" was written after the famous Greene and Gaynor et al. conspiracy case, which has been in progress since 1899.

The last chapter which was written by Marion Erwin, United States attorney, when he asked that the indictment against M. A. Connolly, Oberlin M. Carter's secretary, and indicted jointly with him and Greene and Gaynor, be nolle prossed. Judge Speer consented to this, and a statement of the case was ordered placed on the minutes of the court. The statement says in part:

"Although Connolly, then a comparatively young man, was induced by Carter to perform and did perform under the dominating influence of his superior, many illegal and improper things."

It does not appear that Connolly in any way profited because of his acts. Connolly is now living in New York, where he holds a responsible position. He is a brother of James Connolly, the well-known writer of sea stories.

Marion Erwin, United States attorney, will not nol prosse the indictment against Carter, but he states it will be impossible to try him on practically the same charges upon which he was tried by court-martial and convicted, and there will be no further criminal action against him.

Permits to smoke will be issued by all reputable dealers next week.

NEW ORLEANS PAYS TRIBUTE TO DAVIS

Handsome Shaft Unveiled to the President of the Confederacy.

New Orleans, February 22.—On the birthday of the "father of our country," New Orleans today paid tribute to the only president of the confederacy by unveiling a handsome monument to Jefferson Davis in the parkway recently honored with his name. The elaborate ceremony began at 2 o'clock with a parade of confederate veterans, national guards and confederate societies.

A beautiful and picturesque feature of the unveiling was the formation of a living confederate flag by the schol children. The honor of drawing the cords which bared the shaft to the view of thousands who had gathered for the ceremony was given to Mrs. J. F. Spearing, treasurer of the Jefferson Davis Monument Association, which is responsible for the tribute to the confederate leader.

The principal address was delivered by General Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, one of the south's greatest orators.

The monument is of granite, with a bronze statue of Jefferson Davis, and represents one of the best efforts of Edward Virginius Valentine. It stands at the corner of Hagan avenue and Canal street.

CIRCULAR FLIGHTS MADE IN AIRSHIP

New Wright Aeroplane Tested at San Antonio, Texas.

San Antonio, Texas, February 22.—The first circular flights in the southwest with two men in an aeroplane were made this afternoon at Fort Sam Houston by Lieutenant G. D. Foulois and Phil Parmalee, the aviator. The occasion was the first test of the new Wright aeroplane, presented to the army by Robert J. Collier, of New York. Parmalee was at the wheel and Lieutenant Foulois was the passenger. Two flights were made at an altitude of 600 feet. Parmalee made two additional flights alone.

The new aeroplane showed remarkable speed and lifting power. It was developed that the machine can carry two men of average weight and 25 gallons of gasoline, enough fuel to propel the aeroplane 200 miles.

Both Lieutenant Foulois and Parmalee are expecting orders within a couple of days to take the areoplane to Laredo and there make observations along the Mexican border.

VIEWS OF SUICIDE GIVEN BY KAISER

In Overruling Decision of Military Court on Case of Attempted Self-Murder.

Berlin, February 22.—Today's papers publish the cabinet order of Emperor William overruling the verdict of the military court of honor in the case of Count Hans von Pfeil and expressing his majesty's views of suicide.

The count is an officer in the German army and recently attempted suicide. He was tried by the regimental tribunal which is authority in matters of personal conduct not covered by fixed laws and found guilty of having violated his military oath.

In setting aside the judgment, which would mean dismissal from the service, the emperor declared:

"He is responsible only to God and his conscience. Therefore his deed can be judged neither by regular nor honor tribunals."

LUMBER TALKS

No. 22.

By CY. PRESS.

Promptness in delivery—

What a world of satisfaction there is to the builder and contractor in complying with this rule—

This rule is a feature, and this feature is a rule, with E. G. WILLINGHAM'S SONS, manufacturing LUMBERMEN—

Next to getting QUALITY IN LUMBER, it is the most appreciated. Recently, a member of E. G. WILLINGHAM'S SON'S Lumber concern, during a general round of inspection of buildings, in various stages of completion, in different parts of the city, for which his firm was supplying all the LUMBER, stopped his car at a series of dwellings being erected by a well-known contractor, whom he found with "brows drawn into cavernous furrows," and giving expressions to choleric expletives, that punctured the atmosphere with the decisive emphasis of the escapement of a motorcycle. What was the the trouble?

Every supply man that day upon whom he had relied for prompt delivery seemed to have banded into a league of conspirators to torment him, and "jab his nerves," not to mention ventilate his pocketbook.

Those who had come on the scene, came late—the day dragged — workmen stood about idly, awaiting supplies —the plumbers—plasterers —painters—wasting time—resting on their jobs—but—the CARPENTERS WERE ALL BUSY. There seemed to be no lack of material for them — and so commented the contractor, who took occasion to say he was obliged to "take off his hat" to E. G. WILLINGHAM'S SONS for PROMPTNESS — unfailing promptness, in delivering what was ordered, and when they promised to deliver it, thus keeping his carpenters busy, with no lapses in their time.

put by Judge E. C. Kontz stated emphatically that the work of examining the colored pupils was of supreme importance. He said that there were two dread diseases of a very contagious nature to which the people of the colored race were very susceptible and that the white people were in constant danger of contagion.

It was then suggested that it might be best to have a corps of negro doctors for the work as well as negro nurses. Judge Kontz, however, objected to this, saying:

Opposes Negro Doctors.

"In in consideration of the white children only, I think that this work among the negroes should have the advantage of the very best medical attention. This it will have if it is done by Dr. Stephens and Dr. Sage, and I think that is the way it should be.

"However, none of us want our white nurses to go into the homes of the negroes. It is more fitting that the colored homes should be visited by colored nurses. I therefore suggest that we hire negro nurses to do this domiciliary part of the work."

Dr. Stephens said that he thought that with the aid of one or two colored nurses the work of inspecting the colored schools could be completed in two months. He said that he and Dr. Sage could each take one of the white nurses for the work of examining the colored children at the schools, after which the colored nurses would follow out the work in the colored homes. The two other white nurses, he said, could be employed meanwhile in the white schools.

E. M. Mitchell suggested that it might be advisable to postpone the inspection of the colored schools until council should grant funds for a corps of medical inspectors composed entirely of negroes.

Appropriation Granted.

In consequence of the immediate necessity of the work, however, it was considered advisable to make use of the present corps, with the addition of negro nurses to visit the colored homes. Judge Kontz made a motion, asking council for $200 for this purpose, which was passed unanimously.

The action of the finance committee in this matter is not final as it is in the nature of a recommendation to the entire board of education. Nor is it within the province of the committee to command the actions of the department of medical inspection. The whole matter will therefore come up before the regular meeting of the board Thursday afternoon for final sanction.

The Constitution has received the following cards in connection with the question of hiring negro nurses:

Two Indorsements.

"Editor Constitution: I read with much interest your editorial on "Negro Nurses for Negro Inspection." As you say, "there are negro nurses abundantly available who are better fitted to minister to the peculiar needs of their own people than are the white nurses." We most sincerely thank you for this most timely statement and feel sure that the board of education will agree with you and employ negro nurses who will gladly do the work. Competent nurses have been graduating from our schools here in Atlanta for more than twelev years and have served in some of the best white homes of the city, from which they can secure excellent recommendations. We do hope the question will provoke no further discussion, but that the negro nurses will be selected to inspect negro students.

"Respectfully,
"ALICE DUGGED CARY,
"Secretary Morris Brown College."

"Editor Constitution: Let me indorse your strong utterance of today on the employment of colored nurses for the inspection of negro schools and homes. The points you make are incontestible. The natural aptitude of our women for this work, improved by the skill of the schools, together with their racial affinity, make them without superiors for this peculiar task.

"If there is any doubt as to whether these workers can be found we shall be glad to furnish the board of education with a list of persons available for this important task. It seems to me sound policy to let the black stand on his own feet just as quickly as he is able to do so.

"Yours very truly,
(REV.) H. H. PROCTOR."

FOUL SPY SYSTEM OF BUREAUCRATS MENACES PEOPLE

Even Private Individuals Not Safe From Espionage of Hitchcock's Creatures.

SPIES ORDERED TO WATCH MAGAZINE PUBLISHERS

When Publishers Went to Washington to Protest Against Increase in Postal Rates They Were Shadowed by Sleuths. Bureaucrats Use Government Agents in Divorce Case.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, February 22.—(Special) The extent of the spy system, built up under the direction of the postoffice department over which Frank Harris Hitchcock presides, and the widespread activity of the detective bureau attached to the postal service, cannot be judged by the mere number of special agents employed nor the fact that $1,000,000 of government money is annually appropriated for their maintenance.

An instance of the surveillance practiced by these private detectives over private citizens of the United States has just become known in Washington.

Spies After Magazine Publishers.

A few weeks ago the publishing interests of the country, affected by the proposed increase in the postal rate on magazines, established headquarters at the New Willard hotel to conduct a crusade against the proposed rate advance, which they insist will seriously injure their business and cause many small magazines to cease publication.

No sooner were they installed and their campaign of opposition launched than rooms adjoining those reserved by the publishers and other rooms contiguous thereto were reserved by men later uncloaked as special agents of the postoffice department, who resorted to this device to spy upon the operations of the publishers and y eavesdropping and other secret practices of the spy keep under surveillance free citizens of the United States to learn in advance their plans of operation. Methods used against criminals and against enemies of the country were thus employed by Mr. Hitchcock's agents against men who were openly and publicly taking steps to protect their business interests.

Politics in Fight on Magazines.

The alert house detective of the Hotel Willard was the first to detect the suspicious actions of the mysterious visitors and reported the matter to the management. With the view of protecting their guests, the hotel management immediately communicated their suspicions to the representatives of the publishers.

That there is politics in the movement against the magazines of the nation, many of whom have been rather severe in their denunciation of public officials, is firmly believed here. The private detectives were presumably not limited in the field of their activity, but were seeking information of whatever nature bearing upon the public doings or private movements of members connected with the publishers' press bureau, to block their campaign and, if possible, intimidate the leaders in it.

Private Individuals Shadowed.

Several years ago the abuses that had crept into the secret service system attached to various other administrative departments of the government were unearthed. It was discovered, for instance, that these government employees were being used by bureau heads to shadow private individuals, and in one case to gather testimony for use in a divorce proceeding. The disclosures created a sensation and efforts to stop such unlawful employment were immediately made.

Government Employees Cowed.

The spy system of Russia is being laid under tribute by the detectives of the postal service of this government to furnish methods for the practice of their arts. Employees of the government are so cowed and intimidated they do not dare to talk, and even fear to be seen conversing with a newspaper man.

fore the extent of the damage will be definitely known, but most encouraging reports are being received, nevertheless, from many stations in the center of the peach growing belts.

Many fruit dealers and fruit growers have expressed the belief that the high wind which followed the rain and which preceded the cold wave by several hours has played an important part in lessening the damage to the fruit, because it dried out the buds and the blossoms and left small poportunity for them to freeze.

The freezing temperature has been general throughout the southern states and it is possible that in numerous sections the crop has been entirely destroyed or so stunted that it will be valueless, but those in close touch with the situation are optimistic that there are few points where such conditions exist.

Small Damage at Cornelia.

Cornelia, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The freeze last night was unprecedented. The thermometer went down to 16 degrees and still peaches are safe. This is probably due to the high elevation of this section and the clay soil which keeps the buds dormant. Only a few blossoms show, but those that are fully open were undoubtedly killed.

Fortunately, scarcely a blossom is out, but a few seedling trees and a few plum trees that were out will be ruined. The peach belt as a whole suffered no injury. A high wind Monday, which has kept up constantly, dried out the buds and saved the crop. If the weather continues dry and windy there will be little damage.

Serious Damage in Texas.

Dallas, Texas, February 22.—Twenty degrees above zero was the point touched last night by temperatures throughout a large portion of northern Texas. The 20-degree line appears to have extended east and west through about the latitude of Dallas and Fort Worth.

The loss to the fruit crop has been heavy, but not total.

Houston and the southern portions of the state report that they escaped the freeze entirely. At Galveston a phenomenal formation of thin ice occurred today, with the official government temperature reading at 36 above zero, minimum. Extremely high barometric pressure is said to account for the ice. Heavy rains were reported in the gulf and along the Mexican coast.

Fruit Crop Uninjured.

Marshallville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Though the mercury fell here this morning to 24 degrees, the fruit crop is not killed. S. H. Rumph, I. F. Murph and E. B. Baldwin all agree that the peach crop is not so far materially hurt.

Damage Very Slight.

Mount Airy, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—Although the thermometer registered 16 degrees at 7 o'clock this morning in an exposed place, the damage to the peach crop in this section is very slight.

Half-Million Estimated.

Birmingham, Ala., February 22.—Reports from various parts of the state show that the frost and continued cold weather during the past two days has damaged the fruit and produce crops considerably, an estimate today placing the amount to be at least half a million dollars.

Cold Nips Strawberries.

Bay Minette, Ala., February 22.—All early strawberries in this section have been killed by the cold. Thermometers registered 20 degrees this morning. Tree fruit has been damaged.

Much Damage in Dougherty.

Albany, Ga., February 22.—(Special.) The temperature fell to 28 degrees here last night and the effects are visible today in blackened vegetation which marks the practical extinction of some truck gardens.

While all vegetables were not killed, the effects generally were disastrous.

It is feared that the pear crop was ruined, though some fruit men are hopeful that the blossoms had dried out sufficiently not to have been killed.

Such fruits as figs and plums were completely destroyed.

Part of Crop in Bartow Killed.

Adairsville, Ga., February 22.—(Special.)—The minimum temperature today was 20 degrees. The commercial orchards of peaches are about half in bloom. Growers differ as to the amount of damage done. Some claim as much as two-thirds killed, while others think the loss is total.

Fruit Safe About Commerce.

Commerce, Ga., Feruary 22.—(Special.)—The temperature went the lowest of the recent cold spell here last night, registering 20 above zero.

There was ice and frozen earth but practically no frost. Close observers here say that a freeze does not kill fruit unless the sap freezes.

Only a small per cent of the peach buds have fully opened, and it is not believed that any appreciable part of the peach crop is yet materially damaged.

Heavy Damage in Alabama.

Montgomery, Ala., February 22.—Reports from over this section are to the effect that the entire fruit and vegetable crop has been killed by the present cold wave. Experts claim that the wind has caused the sap in the trees to freeze, killing the buds. English peas were in full bloom and Irish potatoes coming up. These are dead. Young oats are in danger and corn has been killed in the ground.

Outlook Gloomy in Central Georgia.

Macon, Ga., February 22.—From 10 to 15 per cent damage from last night's cold is reported from various peach sections tonight, but only Byron and Americus report a damage of 50 per cent, and that per cent concerns only the buds that have so far developed. It is the opinion of S. H. Rumph, of Marshallville, that the damage last night is inconsiderable, owing to the fact that the picking of several times the number of peaches damaged would have to be done any way before the crop matures.

The outlook tonight, however, is worse than that of last night at the same hour. The wind shows every indication of ceasing before morning, and it is the statement of the growers that frost will damage the fruit at from 2 to 4 degrees lower than will cold without frost. The weather bureau predicts that the temperature will be the same tomorrow as it was today, and that the wind will probably lie. There was no frost last night, and only in the valleys was the damage more than slight.

"SPY PROMENADE" OF NEW POST OFFICE

in the Atlanta office, will be of interest in this connection. In part, Mr. Stokes said:

"On the 23d of March, 1910, eight or ten of these vultures swooped down on the Atlanta office and called each and every employee in the mailing department before them and commenced a season of hounding and prying, and with coercion, and fear for their jobs, they were compelled to sign secret affidavits against their supervisory officers. There were, it is true, some few who, having a grude against these supervisors, eagerly grasped at this opportunity to knife them. A few of these have since been rewarded with additional pay or promotions; but the large majority of employees were grieved beyond measure, unable, however, to protest against such rank injustice.

"It would certainly astonish the people to see the dissatisfaction, unrest and demoralization that has changed the Atlanta postoffice from a splendidly-organized business to a military prison, where fawning serpents crawl, watching every opportunity to bite the unwary.

"I stood one day at a window looking over the work room, only my face being seen. The men had their backs to me. In less than two minutes more the thirty men had glanced over their shoulders, furtively, with the uneasy feeling of being watched. Such has been the pernicious effect of this spy system. There is not a nook or cranny in the office which cannot be overlooked from some secret hole in the wall or gallery.

"And now at the Atlanta office there are foremen galore, but no one dares to superintend or do any official act without first running upstairs to the local inspector for permission.

"The carrier service is causing dissatisfaction to the public. Three delivery carriers are now making two trips without any extension of territory on each route. Instead of three light loads, they have two heavy loads, impeding the movements of hands and body."

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—

To the Superior Court of Said County:

The petition of Mesdames Lugenia Hope, Hattie Watson, Dora B. Whitaker, Hattie Barnett, Mary Stokes, Lucy Ware, Laura Bugg, Ella Crawford, Mary E. Fryer, Nellie Bryant, Georgia Winn, Jessie King, Annie King, Ellen Mathis, Mary Brawner, Emma Jones, Tennie Wimfrey, Fannie Eubanks, Odelia Morrison, Lizzie Ports, Katharine Bullock, Mattie Chapman, Daisy Early Abbie Cook, Sophia Avery, Bessie Starke, Leona Johnson, Carrie Kelley, Pauline Johnson, Henrietta Hubert, Mary Wardlaw, Sallie White and Misses Blanche Baugh, Alice Turner, Willie Blue, Charity Collins, Rosa Harris and Maggie Williams, of said State and County, respectfully shows as follows:

1. That Mrs. Lugenia Hope is president, Mrs. Dora B. Whitaker is treasurer, Miss Maggie Williams is secretary, and the other petitioners herein named are members and officers of a charitable organization known as "Neighborhood Union."

2. Petitioners desire for themselves, their associates and successors to be incorporated and made a body corporate under the laws of said State under the name and style of

with the usual privilege of renewal at the expiration of that period.

3. The aforesaid organization is not an institution for financial gain or profit, but purely charitable and benevolent. It will obtain its revenues from donations and free-will offerings of its members and other persons interested in charitable work.

4. The object of said organization is the moral, social, intellectual and religious uplift of the community and neighborhood in which the organization or its branches may be established; to establish lecture courses that shall instruct and help the mothers of the neighborhood in the proper care of themselves and their infants; to impress upon them the importance of fresh air, light and cleanliness in and around the home and premises; to organize clubs and branch societies for the study of the needs and improvement of the neighborhood; to unite our efforts in breaking up dens of immorality and crime in the neighborhood; to aid the law of the land in suppressing vice and crime therein; to encourage wholesome thought and action in the community by disseminating good literature among the young; to encourage habits of industry by establishing clubs for cooking, sewing, millinery and general housekeeping; to keep a census of the community by which we may know the full status of every family and individual therein; to provide for the harmless and beneficial sport and games for the young of the community.

5. The principal office of said corporation shall be in Atlanta, Georgia, but petitioners desire the right to establish branch offices anywhere within or without the state they may desire.

6. Petitioners desire the right to have a constitution and by-laws for the government of said organization, to sue and be sued, to have and use a common seal, to purchase and hold by gift, bequest, devise or otherwise real and personal property necessary for carrying out the purposes of said organization, to obtain credit and extend credit, to borrow money and to give its property in security therefor. Petitioners desire that all contracts and alienations shall be valid for all intent and purposes when signed by the president and secretary of said corporation, and they desire such other franchises and privileges as are usually conferred upon corporations of similar character.

Wherefore petitioners pray to be incorporated under the name and style aforesaid with the powers, privileges and immunities herein set forth and as are now or may hereafter be allowed a corporation of similar character under the laws of Georgia.

PEYTON A. ALLEN,
Petitioners' Attorney.

ARNOLD BROYLES,
Clerk.

GEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY—

I, Arnold Broyles, Clerk of the Superior Court of said County, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct copy of the application for charter of the "NEIGHBORHOOD UNION," as the same appears on file in this office.

Witness my hand and seal of said Court, this 30th day of January, 1911.
